

$5.5 million

SFCC bond issue to voters March 5

By MARY LOU VOSSMEYER
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Improvements for State Fair Community College under a $5.5 million bond proposal will include a permanent campus featuring a learning resource center, fine arts center, and vocational-technical facilities as well as academic classrooms.

The college's Board of Trustees Tuesday night approved submission of the bond issue to district (Benton and Pettis Counties) voters on March 5. March 5 is the same date as the city primary election.

Fred Davis, college president, said an increased tax levy of 15 cents per $100 assessed valuation would be needed to pay off the bonds.

This would make the total SFCC levy 55 cents per $100, including the 40-cent operating levy, which is at its statutory limit.

The board vote on the levy submission was 4-0. Two Benton County trustees, Richard Leppert, Lincoln, and Richard Banks, Cole Camp, were absent.

A preliminary floor plan of two buildings prepared by architects Sammons and Buller was explained to the board. One building would house the vocational-technical facilities and the other would contain the learning resource center, general classrooms and a fine arts center.

Three separate buildings originally were considered, but the architects suggested combining the fine arts center with the learning resource center, Davis said.

The total preliminary cost of the two buildings was estimated at approximately $5.7 million. This figure does not include equipment, Davis said.

Davis also said that in order to stay within the $5.5 million range for the bond issue, funds for the fine arts facilities had to be reduced from $2.3 million to $1.2 million. However, $50,000 was added to that to cover additional instructional space on the second floor of the learning resources center.

Funds from the $2.5 million Elizabeth Yeater estate will be used to help finance the proposed SFCC campus. However, the Yeater will states that money from the estate cannot be used for a vocational building. Therefore, interest from the Yeater estate will be used to pay off the bonds, Davis said.

Davis said the interest from the Yeater bequest, which will go toward retiring the bonds, would be the equivalent of a 30-cent levy, and would thus take care of two-thirds of the levy requirement to accomplish the expansion.

If the levy passes, the college would expand to the west into 113 acres recently purchased with Yeater funds. Davis said the college's existing facilities would be retained for administrative offices. He said some night classes and the handicapped program would remain there as well.

William F. Brown, board treasurer, pointed out that if the levy is not passed, voters will have to be taxed for similar facilities in area high schools in order to set up the type of comprehensive vocational-technical programs that will be required by the State Department of Education.

Davis said that according to the State Department of Education's reclassification requirements, effective in 1975, all Missouri high schools must offer a minimum of six units in practical arts and vocational-technical programs.

Dr. Marvin Fielding, vice-president of instruction, told the board that the college will be designed to handle approximately 20 per cent of area high school grades 11 and 12. He said that the proposed vocational-technical building could handle six career areas (approximately 300 high school students), including the three vocational programs now in effect.

Davis said that most area high schools have neither the funds

Laird resigns position; urges impeachment vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Melvin R. Laird resigned today as President Nixon's chief domestic counselor and called on the House to decide by March 15 whether it will impeach the President.

Laird predicted that an impeachment resolution would fail but said the matter should be resolved promptly because the continuing controversy over Watergate and other issues is hurting America's foreign and domestic policies.

He called on his former colleagues in the House to "accept their constitutional responsibilities" and vote on the issue.

Laird told a White House news briefing of his decision to leave Nixon's staff effective Feb. 1 after seven months as the President's chief domestic counselor.

"I don't have disappointments" in departing to become senior counselor for national and international affairs of the Reader's Digest Association. Laird said in rejecting reports he was unhappy because Nixon had failed to heed his political advice.

"This is the time I can make the break and I do not believe this should be interpreted in any way that I am a quitter," said Laird, who served as secretary of defense during Nixon's first term.

Laird said he had not expressed to Nixon his view that the House should set a deadline for voting on an impeachment resolution.

But Laird said the White House had made available extensive information on which the House could base its decision.

Present emergency energy bill said unacceptable to President

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House today told Senate-House conferees considering the emergency energy bill that President Nixon is prepared to veto the legislation in its present form.

"That bill is in deep trouble," Fred Webber, White House special assistant for congressional affairs, said as he buttonholed Republican members of the conference outside the closed door meeting.

Webber said the White House objected to a congressional veto provision which would allow Congress to repeal energy conservation measures put into effect while Congress is away over the Christmas break. Webber said industry complained it shouldn't be expected to begin a fuel saving plan which could be overturned the day Congress returns.

The bill gives Nixon sole power to order gasoline rationing immediately and Congress veto power over other actions he might take.

After an all-day session ending late Tuesday, congressional conferees said they hope to complete drafting work today on the sweeping energy bill.

President Nixon, meanwhile, arranged a mid-afternoon huddle today with energy chief William E. Simon as a deadline neared for the administration's decision on gasoline rationing. Simon has said he expects such a decision to come this week.

A presidential press aide would not predict whether the meeting, which will precede the regular weekly gathering of the administration's Energy Emergency Action Group, would produce a rationing announcement.

In another development, the Teamsters said they would reopen contract negotiations with the trucking industry to make sure that energy crisis actions do not cut into their members' paychecks.

An Associated Press study completed today shows that energy conservation by individual Americans is beginning to pay off in many areas of the country. The study showed an appreciable drop in usage of electricity in the past six weeks over a similar period last year. Utility officials said it was hard to measure the exact effect of the conservation measures.

Terrorists' fate still unknown

KUWAIT (AP) — Kuwait officials maintained official silence today on the fate of five Palestinian terrorists who killed 32 persons in a two-day spree at airports in Rome and Athens.

But official sources in Morocco said Kuwaiti authorities have pledged that "severe punishment" awaits the killers. Two of their victims were Moroccan ministers.

Moroccan Foreign Minister Ahmed Taieb Benhima received assurances the five guerrillas will stand trial in Kuwait or be handed over to the Palestinian Liberation Organization for trial, the sources said.

The terrorists flashed V-for-victory signs and said they were proud of what they had done as they were taken in handcuffs Tuesday night to a military air base for questioning.

They had freed 12 hostages unharmed and then surrendered after flying to this Persian Gulf sheikdom in a hijacked West German jet. Kuwaiti officials said their surrender was unconditional but spokesmen for the West German airline Lufthansa said Kuwait had promised them safe passage to an undisclosed destination.

The German jet returned to Rome today, 49 hours after the commandos took it over following their shooting spree and firebombing of a jet Monday at Rome's airport.

The 12 hostages were aboard the jet and were greeted by a happy crowd of relatives, colleagues and authorities.

The hostages included five Italian policemen, an Ethiopian ground employee at the Rome airport, West German, French and Austrian stewardesses, and the three crewmen of the jet.

Salvatore Fortuna, one of the policemen, was welcomed home by his parents, 11 brothers, fiance and friends, who traveled overnight from Sicily to meet him.

After the hostages were freed in Kuwait Tuesday, the German pilot of the hijacked

"We are Palestinian Arabs, proud of what we did," one said. "We are not criminals. The criminals are those who bomb Palestinian refugee camps in Lebanon."

The guerrillas killed 30 persons by firebombing a Pan American jet Monday at Rome's Fiumicino airport and shot an Italian policeman to death. They killed another Italian among their hostages in Athens and threw his body out of the plane.

But reports from the plane that four other hostages had been murdered were false, concocted by the guerrillas in a futile attempt to get the Greek government to release two Black September terrorists awaiting trial for murder.

At least 14 of the victims of the Rome firebombing were Americans, and a 16-year-old American girl who survived, Robbie Haggard, was in critical condition with burns over much of her body.

damage to the house and $1,000 to contents. The blaze was confined to the front room. One fireman said the blizzard-like conditions did not hamper firefighting efforts. Firemen stayed at the scene for about two hours.

Connecticut is hardest hit by severe weather

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow, sleet and freezing rain were forecast for parts of the beleaguered East Coast in the wake of a storm that forced an estimated 250,000 persons from their homes in Connecticut.

"I'd say over a quarter of a million people are in hotels, schools, fire houses or family or friends' houses," said Alan Hekking, chief of operations for the Connecticut Office of Civil Preparedness. "I'm trying to get an emergency generator for a hospital and a guy's asking me for a generator to keep his cows alive."

Despite repair efforts, Connecticut power companies estimated that 84,400 customers were still without electricity today where temperatures plunged to just above zero overnight.

The National Weather Service forecast snow, sleet and freezing rain tonight or early Thursday for much of the East Coast, including Connecticut.

In the South, the National Weather Service issued a tornado watch in parts of Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas and Texas and warned of damaging winds and hail.

In the Midwest, snow continued to fall.

forcing closure of hundreds of schools in Minnesota, Illinois, Missouri and Michigan. Massive traffic jams were reported in St. Louis, which was in the grip of its first winter storm. Heavy snow warnings were in effect in Minnesota.

At least three storm-related deaths were reported today on Long Island, N.Y., where an estimated 45,000 persons were still without electricity because of Monday's storm. And new deaths also were reported in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Colorado.

Hazardous roadway conditions in state

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A winter storm compounded by heavy snow, freezing rain and sleet held Missouri in its grip today.

At least four highway deaths were blamed on slippery roads.

A heavy snow warning was posted for northeast Missouri, and driving conditions were hazardous in all but the southeast part of the state.

The sleet and snow forced the closing of Lambert St. Louis Municipal airport and produced massive traffic jams on major highways throughout the St. Louis metropolitan area.

It was the first major storm of the winter season for St. Louis, and forecasters said it might get six inches of snow before nightfall.

Five inches already was on the ground at Hannibal, and most of northeast Missouri was expected to get at least four inches during the day.

The Missouri Highway Patrol reported that most highways were covered with ice and snow north of a line from Carthage on the west to Ste. Genevieve on the east.

Four inches of snow was reported at Jefferson City, and schools were closed in Cole county around the state capital and in Callaway County, northeast across the Missouri River.

The Kansas City metropolitan area had

In the Midwest, snow continued to fall. Officials said up to seven inches of new snow fell in some areas of Minnesota by midmorning.

Traffic on major Eastern roads approached normal after being crippled because of the storm, but driving was still hazardous in some areas because of icy roads. The Long Island Rail Road, which had either canceled trains Tuesday or reported delays ranging up to three hours, said operations were near normal this morning.

one-half to one inch of snow, on top of an ice coating.

The snow had stopped in northwest Missouri, but up to four inches was expected to fall during the day in northeast Missouri. The Kansas City Metropolitan area was warned to expect another inch. Central and southeast Missouri were to get around two inches more.

The snow was expected to reach into southeast Missouri before the day was over and continue tonight. The clearing process was expected to continue across the state from the northwest during the day and Thursday, with the snow ending in extreme southeast Missouri during the night.

Jams on the interstate highways in the St. Louis area backed up several miles in some places.

Many schools in eastern Missouri also canceled classes, as did some in outlying areas around Kansas City.

The mercury was not expected to rise much above 20 in northern Missouri today, but readings near 50 still were forecast for the southeast Bootheel. But by tonight, temperatures were expected to be down near 10 in the north and the middle 20s in the Bootheel.

Tuesday's highs were from 28 at Kirksville to 49 at Joplin, and the lows early today ranged from 19 at Maryville to 35 at Cape Girardeau and West Plains.

Bales declines comment on economic director vote

Second Ward Democrat Raymond Bales declined to comment Tuesday on how he will vote on the issue of hiring an economic development director at the next City Council meeting, but he did request that all interested voters write to him and tell him whether they think the position should be filled at this time.

Bales said he would like to hear the people's opinions before voting on the issue.

Bales was absent from Monday night's council meeting because of illness. A straw vote taken Monday revealed a 4 to 3 split against hiring a director.

"We've still got three weeks before we have to decide on this," Bales said. Bales' address is 324 East Saline.

Related to the issue, Economic Development Board chairman Don Broadus said Tuesday he contacted the prospective new economic development director after Monday night's City Council meeting and told him the decision on hiring him had been delayed because of the absence of one of the council members.

Broadus said the man asked him if there was any trouble with his hiring, and that he (Broadus) replied that there was some difficulty because some councilmen were concerned over the current energy crisis.

"He said the energy crisis makes the need for an economic director even greater because right now he is working with companies in his area to help them deal with the energy crisis," Broadus said.

The man told Broadus he is willing to wait for an answer until after the next council meeting, which is Jan. 7, Broadus said.

The City Council authorized the Wartime heroine tells of escapes

By SANDRA GITTENS
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Ruth Kluger has somehow maintained a belief in idealism and romanticism that she calls tradition, but it seems more like simple faith.

As a young woman during World War II, Ruth and nine men were involved in a secret alliance known as Mossad le Aliyah Bet, the purpose of which was to smuggle Jews out of Europe during the reign of Nazi terrorism.

International laws restricted departure of Jews from Europe and made it illegal for them to enter Palestine. But somehow laws had to be circumvented. Ruth, with co-author Peggy Mann, has explained how it was possible in a new book, "The Last Escape," giving her candid views of pre-Nazi and wartime Europe, covering the years 1939 to 1941.

When speaking about some of her experiences, Ruth is at once emotionally touched. Her voice becomes so tender.

She says that by the time she came to Paris in 1942 her name was so well known that people were writing to her from all over Europe. The letters were addressed simply: "Ruth, Paris."

"There were so many names to remember," Miss Kluger recalls, "because we had to keep burning our files. All the people who wrote were in desperate need of getting out of Europe as quickly as possible."

"Once," she recalls, "a young lady and another woman I thought was her mother came to seek my help. The younger girl was very upset and ordered me to get them on a ship immediately. I told her this was impossible at the moment. We lacked a ship. But I promised to help them as soon as I could."

"I suggested that mother and daughter go to an area set up by the 'Mossad' to provide food and shelter for our people until we could make arrangements to get them to Palestine."

"At that moment," Ruth recalls, "the older woman began crying hysterically. The younger one slapped my face. She informed me the woman was not her mother but her sister, only a few years older than herself."

The sister had been tortured and left barren during imprisonment in a Nazi camp. Ruth says she told them to go on and cry because it was good to let emotions take their place.

"Ironically, it was considered her pleas were King Carol of Rumania and General Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The 59-year-old heroine of the war era is lecturing in the United States, stimulating interest in the history of her people and the future of Israel. She says the most awesome thing she has found is naive among some university students.

"Somehow," she adds, "They don't believe that what has happened could happen again if we are not aware of what is going on around us."

She would like to see people return to tradition and adds, "Unfortunately, some of us no longer believe in idealism or romanticism."

As for the Middle East situation, she says that she is always hopeful.

"We are doing our best, but I do not feel the Arabs are showing any humanity. When will there be peace? When the killing stops. We only want the world to see the truth and to stop demanding that we be peaceful. We were peaceful on Yom Kippur."

"We want peace," Miss Kluger said, "but not under conditions of blackmail and murder."

"illegal" for Jews to leave Europe; our mission was considered 'illegal.' We were often one step ahead of legal action. When I went to people to ask for their help, I used to ask them if it was 'illegal' to save a human life?" Ruth remembers.

Visiting people, she took along the idea that she was offering them a chance to do something great for humanity. Among those who responded to

Last year they were needlepoint ones and the year before that each received half of a clear plastic ball with a picture of the child, taken the Christmas before, fit into the open side. The round cardboard back was covered on the outside with red velvet glued on and then gold cord glued over the edge of the half ball with more gold cord and narrow red velvet ribbon made into a bow with drooping ends at the top where it fastens to the tree. It is years too late now but I wish I had started with just this one idea and they would all have pictures of themselves and how they looked each Christmas through the years of growing up. —POLLY.

Sewing class is 'tailor made'

WEST HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — "Well, why not? If women are becoming truck drivers, why shouldn't we learn to sew?"

The logic belongs to Frank Mastronardi, a tailor who is among the 38 male students who are now learning to sew at St. Joseph's College through weekly lessons taught by a nun.

The St. Joseph Sewing Center is run by Sister Gloria, C.S.J., who says she's been sewing most of her life and is now happy to be teaching her skills.

"I always hoped to get permission to give lessons so I kept up in the field," says the nun, who has taught people

Mastronardi said even though he's a tailor "I'm interested in women's designs and I plan to teach adult sewing classes."

A male bank executive says the skills Sister Gloria is teaching him can save money.

"When I can make a handsome suit for a great deal less than I'd pay in a clothing store, it's a powerful inducement to learn to sew," Gilman Michaud says.

Sister Gloria has praise for her male students:

"A man's taste is just as good as a woman's once he's gained some experience in selecting his material."

She says that most of the men in her course enroll with the aim of making items they can wear.

"It's silly to expect men to sew aprons so I start them off making trousers. It's something they're proud to wear and a real challenge to beginning sewers," she says.

But Earl Holloway, a linotypist, sees sewing as just fun.

"Sewing is wonderful therapy. I get so engrossed that I forget what an aggravating day I've had."

The training, provided by the National Council on Alcoholism and Alcoholics Anonymous of the Kansas City area, considers alcoholism as a disease.

Second generation Sedalia mail carrier retires

Taking it easy

After being involved in mail-handling for 30 years, Tom Gray Jr., 1022 West Seventh, enjoys having more time now to communicate in another fashion... by ham radio. (Democrat-Capitol Photo)

By RON JENNINGS
Democrat-Capitol Staff Writer

This is the first holiday season in 33 years that Tom Gray Jr., 1022 West Seventh, has collected Christmas cards from his front porch mailbox without worrying about how it got there.

Gray retired in July, after more than three decades of working in the local post office. Beginning with his days as a substitute clerk to his position of superintendent of mails, which he held upon retirement, Gray has been involved with the distribution and delivery of mail within the city.

But, that's not all. Far from holding a monopoly on postal service in his family, Gray followed the path of his father, Tom Gray Sr., retired in 1939, after serving 32 years, only one less than his son.

"Altogether, I guess my father and I have spent about 65 consecutive years at the local post office," he calculated. "It seems strange to me to realize that there's no Tom Gray down there anymore."

Besides serving almost exactly the same number of years as his father, Gray pointed out another similarity in their careers.

"My father and I both worked in two post office buildings in town," he said. "He worked at the old-old post office building at the southeast corner of Second and Lamine. I worked at Fourth and Lamine and, for the past five years, in the present building."

Disputing the notion that parental influence steered him toward his life's work, Gray said he began his career because "I thought it would be rewarding, not because my father specifically asked me to." The elder Gray died in 1939, shortly after his retirement and soon before his son began work.

Reflecting on the combined family total of 65 years spent in postal service, Gray relied on his own experiences and his father's memories to revive images ranging from turn-of-the-century railroad mail cars to modern mail-sorting methods.

"I think the major change over the years has been in distribution from railroad mail transportation to the airplane and truck," he said. "When my father was working, the mail was distributed by rail to Sedalia and from Sedalia to Warsaw and all points in between including Spring Fork. Every small town had a post office then. Now, most of the smaller places haven't had offices in years."

When mail-by-rail was king, Sedalia provided a suitable empire for its central Missouri operations. Now, 65 years later, Gray feels, the same is true, "but in a different sense."

"It's just that the equipment and terminology have changed," he explained. "When Sedalia became a sectional (mail-handling) center in 1970, and assumed the administrative operation of the Harrisonville sectional center (in 1972), we became a center of operations again. Times do change, but in another sense, history also repeats itself."

While speaking eagerly of the past, Gray easily shifted mental gears when asked about the present and future.

"Another change, much more recent, is of course the switch from our operations being run on the cabinet level and being run by an autonomous body."

Which, he firmly believes, is for the better.

"I think change and progress, for the right reason and in the right manner, are good. I realize a great many people are questioning the operation of the so-called 'new' post office every day. But, I think we're lucky in this locality to be a sectional center under the new set-up."

One of his primary pet peeves, he said, "is John Q. Public who really gets upset if one of his letters or parcels is delayed. He doesn't stop to think and consider the other 99 times that the mail is delivered promptly and efficiently."

Gray views the completion of the Sedalia municipal airport improvement project as another chain in the cycle of mail-delivery improvement.

"For a while (in the early 1970's) we had air taxi service, but it was later discontinued. When the airport project is completed, I would rather imagine we would get back in the air again. That, needless to say, would be a tremendous addition to our service."

Backtracking briefly, Gray cited one final parallel between his father's career and his own — both their jobs were soon eliminated after their retirement.

"My father primarily worked in selling postal money orders," Gray said. "That kept him pretty busy full time. Now, the post office doesn't handle near as many as they used to. A full-time postal order clerk was phased out long ago."

Similarly, he indicated, his position of superintendent of mail has gone unfilled while changes are being made to divide his former duties into separate classifications.

"It's just getting to be too big an operation for just one administrative person to adequately handle," he said. "Although it hasn't been completely worked out yet to my knowledge, many of my duties will probably be taken over by a manager of mail processing."

Right now, though, the only title that really has any meaning is "happily retired executive."

"I've got my ham radio going a lot of the time now and I'm active in the local ham radio club," Gray said. "I'm managing to keep very busy and it's great just being able to take it easy."

Prison sentence reduced for Boyle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former United Mine Workers President W. A. "Tony" Boyle today was given a reduced prison sentence for misusing union funds and appeared headed for a quick arraignment on murder charges. U.S. District Judge Charles Richey cited Boyle's poor health in reducing his original five-year sentence to three years. The deposed union chief was convicted in June 1972 and had been sentenced to two concurrent five-year terms and fined $130,000 for making illegal political donations with union funds. The judge ordered Boyle committed immediately to the federal prison hospital at Springfield, Mo. However, a Justice Department attorney said Boyle was expected to be arraigned Thursday in Washington County, Pa., for the murders of Joseph A. (Jock) Yablonski and his family.

Soviets report Soyuz 13 orbiting

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet space officials reported today the Soyuz 13 spaceship launched Tuesday has completed 18 orbits of the earth. They quoted the two rookie cosmonauts aboard as saying: "We feel fine." The report was the first word on the progress of the space shot since its launching, which for the first time put Soviet and American spacemen in orbit at the same time. Previous missions of the two countries never before coincided.

Letter bomb is sent to member of Parlaiment

LONDON (AP) — A letter bomb was delivered to the home of a member of Parliament today in the latest incident in a wave of terror bombs blamed on Irish extremists. The letter was discovered before being opened and did not explode. At least 65 persons were wounded Tuesday by four bombs in London, and in Dublin the Irish Republican Army warned: "Pressure on the enemy will be maintained on a number of fronts over the Christmas period." Today's letter bomb was addressed to George Drayson, Conservative member of Parliament from Yorkshire, at his home in Hampstead, north London. He said his wife collected the mail and gave him the bulky letter that turned out to be a bomb. "It felt spongy. I was suspicious and called police," he said. Scotland Yard described the package as a "book bomb." It looked like it might contain a book, diary or calendar. Yard experts warned the public to prepare for a spate of pre-Christmas bombings. Local newspapers reported IRA sources told them the London campaign was decided two weeks ago at a meeting of top IRA commanders in Belfast. Tuesday's four bombings had earlier been counted as five. However, police later said two separate reports of car bombings at the Pentonville Prison in north London and the nearby Holloway Women's Jail proved to be only one car bomb. Another car bomb wounded at least 60 persons near Parliament. A letter bomb went off in a post office and a shopping bag exploded in a shopping arcade. Two other letter bombs had been found Monday. One exploded and injured a brigadier on the staff of Queen Elizabeth II.

Three teenagers killed in crash west of Clinton

CLINTON — Three Henry county teenagers were killed at 12:05 a.m. Wednesday when the car they were riding in collided with a tractor-trailer unit on Highway 7 about seven miles west of here. The Highway Patrol identified the victims as Michael Dale Emick, 17, and Robert Keith Gregory and Daniel Gragg, both 18. All were residents of Ulrich, located about 17 miles northwest of Clinton. Investigating officers said the car carrying the teenagers apparently went out of control on a slick, possibly ice-coated bridge, turned sideways and slammed into the tractor-trailer unit. All three were thrown from the car. The truck driver, Marvin Fellers, 37, Oak Grove, Mo., was not hurt. The Patrol said it is not known which youth was driving the vehicle. The car was owned by Emick.

Acquittal motion has been filed

Frank G. Rouchka Jr., 18, 100 State Fair Blvd., who was charged with tampering with a motor vehicle without the owner's permission, filed a motion for acquittal Tuesday in Pettis County Circuit Court on grounds of mental disease and mental disability. Rouchka was bound over for trial to Circuit Court in September on a charge that he allegedly attempted to drive a pickup truck without the permission of its owner, Jim Johnson, who lives about three miles southwest of Sedalia. Rouchka underwent a mental examination at the state hospital in Fulton in September, it was learned.

Agnew appeals for suspension only

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has asked the Maryland judiciary to only suspend him from practicing law. Agnew, who faces possible disbarment by the State of Maryland, appealed to a panel of three circuit court judges Tuesday, asking them not to agree with the request for his disbarment from the Maryland Bar Association. He asked the judges to recommend to the state's highest court "some suitable suspension" for his no-contest plea in federal court in October to one charge of income tax evasion. "That's a reasonable solution to the problem. It's a reasonable protection for the courts and the bar," Agnew said. Agnew told the judges that their job was to consider how he had practiced law in the past and how he would practice law in the future, not further punishment on the tax evasion charge. "Should I be permitted to resume my practice, I would conduct myself in a way that would not bring discredit on the bar, the legal profession or the courts," he said. Alfred L. Scanlan, a lawyer for the Maryland Bar Association, asked during the 2½-hour hearing Tuesday that Agnew be disbarred.

Bond 'disappointed' by Senate revamp bill

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Senate has put together a government reorganization bill that Gov. Christopher S. Bond has labeled "no better than the bill I vetoed last summer." After nine hours of debate Tuesday, many of the governor's positions had been sustained by members of the Senate Reorganization Committee which met all day with the governor last Wednesday. But the final product deviated in a dozen or so major areas from what the governor wanted and from what reportedly was agreed upon. There was a dispute several times about just what had been agreed upon and whether it was contained in a transcript of a tape recording of the meeting between Bond and the senators.

MPSC, Bell report no major damage from winter storm

Neither Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. nor the Missouri Public Service Co. early Wednesday afternoon reported any significant damage to power lines or equipment from the ice and snow storm. "We've had about a dozen calls about service being out or limbs across wires," said Walter Savio, MPSC district manager. "But we haven't had any main feeder lines go out." Savio said the first call was received at 6:45 a.m. Robert G. Johnson, Southwestern Bell manager, said, "We've had no major problems at all... haven't had any reports of major damage." The main damage to wires, both men explained, is caused by ice and wind, and not snow. "Actually," Johnson said, "snow isn't that big a problem. The problems develop when you have a mist or a rain with the temperature about 27 or 28 degrees." The weight of the ice causes the breakages.

Hearings are held in drug cases here

Two persons were bound over for trial to Circuit Court Tuesday afternoon on drug charges. Bound over after a preliminary hearing in Magistrate Court were Eddie Lee Powers, 20, 1629 East Fifth, and Malcolm Curd, 19, 117 East Cooper, both charged with selling marijuana. Powers originally was charged with two counts of selling marijuana but one of the charges was dismissed by Prosecuting Attorney Gary Fleming Tuesday. Earlier Tuesday, Kenneth Mitchell, 25, 515 North Washington, was bound over to Circuit Court on a similar charge. Mitchell, Powers and Curd were among seven persons arrested recently for the sale of drugs. The alleged sales were made earlier this year to Steve Vanderfeltz, who was working as an undercover agent for the Sedalia police department from Feb. 23 to May 23. The three are free on $5,000 bond each.

Sedalian robbed at gunpoint here

A Sedalia man was robbed at gunpoint about 5 p.m. Tuesday as he left his home, according to police. A report on the incident stated that Ray Arnett, 114 West Jefferson, was leaving his home with $239 in cash and four checks in a bank pouch when a black man approached and demanded Arnett's money. Arnett told police he refused and the man cocked a revolver and pointed it at Arnett, who then turned over the money. Arnett told police that the man wore a white raincoat and had a woman's stocking pulled over his head. Arnett said the weapon appeared to be a chrome-plated, pearl-handled .22 revolver. Police said they had no leads on the incident as of Wednesday morning.

He said both the grievance committee and the board of governors of the state bar association had recommended disbarment and he said that penalty was justified by Agnew's plea. Judge Shirley B. Jones of Baltimore, head of the three-judge panel, said a recommendation would be made as quickly as possible to the Maryland Court of Appeals, which will decide what disciplinary action to take against Agnew. There was agreement among the lawyers and Agnew that the no-contest plea amounted to conviction of a crime of moral turpitude, which is a cause for disciplinary action against lawyers. But in a 12-minute appeal, Agnew said: "I had very good reasons for pleading the way I did. Some reasons must remain, for the foreseeable future, locked within me." Scanlan said Maryland has taken a very severe view, especially in recent years, of income tax evasion by lawyers. He acknowledged that suspension, and not disbarment, has been levied in some such cases, but he said there were no extenuating circumstances in Agnew's case. "This is not a lawyer who worked hard, got some fees and didn't report it," Scanlan said.

Freighter sinks in churning Pacific waters

VICTORIA, B.C. — A Liberian freighter with a crew of 40 sank today in the Pacific about 520 miles northwest of here, a Canadian Forces plane reported. A Canadian rescue coordinator said flares were visible early today from lifeboats near where the Oriental Monarch was reported to have sunk at 1:15 a.m. PST. "That's a sign that there's someone alive and kicking down there," a Canadian rescue spokesman said. The United States Coast Guard said the Japanese freighter Golden Arrow was at the scene and "trying to run down two life boats and a life raft." The Golden Arrow reportedly was just eight miles away when the freighter went down in gale-whipped seas. Last reports from the ship were that some men were still aboard the Liberian freighter, although these reports could not be confirmed. There had been no communication from the vessel for five hours before it reportedly went down. The freighter had reported Tuesday afternoon that water was entering the engine room. Before communication was lost with the ship Tuesday night a spokesman for the rescue effort said some of the crew had abandoned the freighter when it began taking on water. That report could not be confirmed, and no broadcast reports were received from any men in lifeboats. The Canadian Argus aircraft had reported seeing no crew members in life boats since arriving at the scene late Tuesday. Seas in the area were rough, officials said, churned by winds of up to 50 knots. Swells of 30 feet were reported. Temperatures in the area were in the 40s, but a spokesman said the water temperatures were so cold that a man couldn't survive more than a couple of minutes in the water. The Liberian-registered 10,051-ton freighter, reportedly owned by Taiwan shipping magnate C.Y. Tung, was bound for Japan from Portland, Ore., with a cargo of grain.

House break-in reported to police

Earl Maupins, 309 East Cooper, reported to police that his house was broken into while he was gone between Saturday and Tuesday, and items valued at a total of $825 were reported missing. Maupins told police the thief made off with $200 worth of miscellaneous food from his freezer; $26 in assorted change; a color TV valued at $350; a black and white TV valued at $60; a razor valued at $59; and two watches valued at a total of $130. According to the police report, entry to the house was gained through the back door. The door was braced from the inside, but the door's window was broken and the thief apparently reached through the broken window and removed the brace. An acetylene torch, 50-foot hose, dolly and two bottles of oxygen were stolen from behind the Nu-Way Cafe between 6 p.m. Monday and Tuesday morning. Jack Newby, owner of Nu-Way Cafe, 916 South Limit, said he placed the equipment, valued at $200, behind the building before leaving for the day Monday, and discovered it missing when he arrived at work Tuesday morning.

The board approved a $2. laboratory fee for students taking computer science courses. Fielding told the board that students were requesting more applied work rather than theory in computer sciences, and that the course offered next semester will be one of SFCC's "landmarks" in this regard. The board also voted to join the American Community College Trustees (ACCT) organization. Davis said the group is "a teamwork effort in promoting junior colleges." The board approved $117,754 in expenses for the college, during November.

Decision nearing on lawyer for impeachment probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — A decision is nearing on the selection of a lawyer to direct the investigation of possible grounds for the impeachment of President Nixon. Rep. Peter W. Rodino, D-N.J., who heads the House Judiciary Committee which will conduct the investigation, told committee Democrats Tuesday that he expects to make a final decision today on who will be the special counsel. At the same time, however, committee Republicans were openly critical of the pace of the probe. The GOP committee members called for the setting of a timetable for action and objected to what they termed one-man control by Rodino of the investigation. Rodino turned aside criticism of the pace of the investigation, saying no decisions about how it is to be conducted can be made until the special counsel is on the job.

Hussein and Assad in meeting

King Hussein of Jordan flew to Damascus today for urgent talks with Syrian President Hafez Assad reportedly related to Syria's refusal to attend the Middle East peace talks.

Hussein, who is sending a delegation to the talks, was given a warm welcome by Assad, who embraced him at the ramp of his plane and treated him to a full ceremonial welcome, including a 21-gun salute.

Informed sources in Amman said Hussein wanted to ask Assad how the Syrian stand affected Hussein's demand for a joint Egyptian-Jordanian-Syrian policy at the Geneva talks, scheduled to begin Friday, and for complete Israeli withdrawal without any piecemeal settlements.

Sources said Hussein also wanted to know the status of Jordanian troops in Syria. Hussein sent two armored brigades and support troops to help in the October war. They were placed under Syrian command and remain in Syria.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy left for Geneva today with his delegation, after asserting Egypt "will not discuss minor details" at the talks. He did not elaborate.

Also departing for Geneva, from Moscow, was Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, who will preside along with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Cairo said Tuesday it hoped Syria would reconsider its decision to boycott the talks and join in the conference if progress was made toward a settlement with Israel.

Payments balance surplus is record

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government reported today that the United States had a record $2.5 billion surplus in its balance of payments with other countries in the third quarter of 1973. It was new evidence of the success of dollar devaluations in 1971 and last February. The Commerce Department said the surplus in the third quarter compared with a deficit of $600 million in the second quarter and was the biggest quarterly surplus since the government began tabulating balance of payments figures in 1960. Nearly all of the surplus was attributed to an improvement in the flow of goods and services between the United States and other countries, which showed a favorable balance of $2.1 billion.

Sedalians bound over for trial

Two Sedalia men were bound over for trial to Pettis County Circuit Court after their preliminary hearing Wednesday in Magistrate Court. Charged with second-degree burglary are Calvin L. Marshall, 21, 625 North Osage, and Earl Leon Buckner, 20, 301 East Jefferson. The two are charged with the Dec. 13 break-in at the Looney-Bloess Lumber Co., Main and Washington. They are being held in the Pettis County jail in lieu of $3,500 bond each.

(Continued from Page 1) nor the number of interested students in each school to successfully initiate the six vocational-technical units soon to be required. Board President William Hopkins said the proposed vocational-technical program would compliment the area economy, since many rural youths go to the cities for vocational training in college and don't return. He said that the program might encourage youths to remain in the area in which they were raised. In other business, the board approved a $2. laboratory fee for students taking computer science courses. Fielding told the board that students were requesting more applied work rather than theory in computer sciences, and that the course offered next semester will be one of SFCC's "landmarks" in this regard. Savings didn't pay interest

By PETER WEAVER

Q — We sold some property and had a rather large chunk of cash on hand. We put the cash into a regular savings account around the first of July and we had to take it out during the second week of September. To our amazement and horror, we got absolutely no interest payment on our money. They said interest was calculated on a quarterly basis on a minimum balance which was zero at the end of the quarter. Is this legal? — Mrs. G. C., Bethesda, Md.

A — Only a lawyer could determine whether the savings institution properly disclosed the method of interest calculation before you made your deposit.

Federal regulators and some members of Congress are investigating an increasing number of complaints that some banks, savings and loans and others are not always telling depositors that they will be penalized if they withdraw certain types of savings before quarterly or, in some cases, semiannual deadlines.

The law is vague on this type of disclosure. It just says they're supposed to tell you but it doesn't specify how. Some institutions, actually a minority, claim to tell you verbally how interest is figured, when it is figured and if there are any penalties for withdrawals before a certain date. Others have it in writing in your passbook or elsewhere.

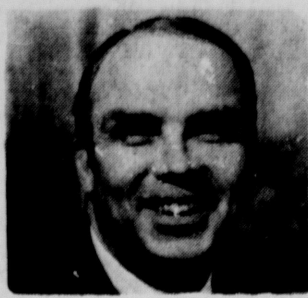

If you need to withdraw money from time to time, the most equitable method of paying interest is from the day of deposit to the day of withdrawal. You can withdraw any time without penalty. In the future, make sure you get an explanation of how and when interest is paid — in writing.

Q — You recently noted that "federal" savings accounts were insured up to $20,000 for each account. What are these accounts insured against? Where do you make a claim for this type of insurance? — G. B., Palm Springs, Calif.

A — This insurance is to protect depositors in federally regulated banks, savings and loans, credit unions and mutual savings banks against failure. Actually, there have been very few federally regulated institutions that have failed within the past decade. If one fails and you are a depositor, you will be informed (within a couple of weeks) just how and when you will be reimbursed by the federal government.

Q — In your column on insulating one's home in order to save money and fuel, you didn't say anything about the insulation material. Is it safe to use on a do-it-yourself basis? — Mrs. D. B., Arlington, Va.

A — It's safe if you take certain precautions. Insulation material is made up of mineral wool which can cling to your skin and cause an irritation. When putting down insulation be sure to wear long sleeves, slacks and gloves.

If you're using insulation that is poured (instead of the rolls or batts), you should also cover your nose and mouth with a surgical mask or other type of filter mask. Unfortunately, some insulation packages don't give these warning instructions.

Yearbook costs jump

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department published Tuesday another of its yearbooks which it says will cost $5.70, up 60 per cent from last year.

The 1973 edition is "Handbook for the Home" and includes 78 chapters ranging in topics from family money management, housing and tips on shade trees to home heating and community services.

Department yearbooks have been published in most years since 1894, and until recently have been oriented usually toward farmers.

Yearbook Editor Jack Haves said the $5.70 charge for this year's edition — compared with $3.50 annually since 1969 — was the result higher printing and paper costs. Printing and direct sales are handled by the government's Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office.

The yearbook is also a traditional public relations link between USDA and Congress.

Each year Congress gets 233,450 free copies, including allocations of 550 books to each senator and 400 to each representative.

Members of Congress then send the books free of charge to voters, schools, libraries and others back home.

The real measure of the USDA yearbook's annual success are the cash sales handled by Government Printing Office.

The biggest seller, through Nov. 17, is "Consumers All" published in 1965 which has sold 125,396 copies. The 1949 edition of "Trees" has sold 120,595 copies, and last year's book, "Landscape for Living," has sold more than 68,000.

Scruggs, Flatt and how they changed history

By ALAN WILSON
Associated Press Writer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Nearly five years ago on an early spring night backstage at the Grand Ole Opry, Lester Flatt and Earl Scruggs changed the course of contemporary music, though it was unapparent at the time.

What happened on that momentous occasion shocked the world of bluegrass and country music. In between the Opry's regular Saturday night shows, Flatt decided the time had come to go his own way, and let Scruggs do the same.

Flatt walked out, dissolving a wealthy partnership that had lasted nearly a quarter century. He had been reluctant to change the patented style of the famous pair, whereas Scruggs yearned to do so.

To this day, each has gone on to do exactly what he wanted — Scruggs with his banjo and Flatt with guitar. Flatt, 59, has remained in the traditional country-bluegrass mold. Scruggs, joined by his sons, has transformed his style into a contemporary pop-folk sound, complete with electric guitars and rock overtones.

But it's only been in the last year or two that the full impact of their split has surfaced. Each man — through his own admirable self-determination — has altered the thinking of millions of young people.

No longer does the younger generation believe rock music is solely where it's at. They crave the acoustical hardcore sound of Flatt's "Nashville Grass" as well as the amplified sound of the "Earl Scruggs Revue."

"It's kinda hard to understand, but if you see our shows you can see the kids' reaction — they just tear the place apart. I think they're fed up with some of the music they've been getting," said Flatt.

"They call it a new sound — and it just gets to 'em. But actually we've been playing it for 20 years."

The crazed reaction to Flatt's music is evidenced especially outside the South, "because they're used to it down here," he says.

Despite his success, Flatt has been criticized for a reluctance to break loose from his style which "you can recognize after I've played about eight notes."

"I don't think you should change. Why change it if it's good to you," said Flatt, relaxing in his sprawling lakefront home in nearby Hendersonville.

"If somethings comes up that's big overnight then that's great for other people. But I don't think you can go along with everything that comes along. You have to be yourself. If you play something 20 years and it was good to you in the beginning and is still good to you right now, you don't want to leave it."

The outspoken but easy-voiced performer never has called his music strictly bluegrass despite its reputation as such.

"It's bluegrass," he says, "because that's how it branched now, but there's no getting away from the fact that it's the forerunner of country music."

"The young kids tell me that this kind of music gets to 'em and the other stuff makes them go to sleep."

Flatt said his group's appeal "hasn't peaked yet" and that he's looking forward to a better year in 1974. Already, the "Nashville Grass" has 85 dates lined up next year, 50 of them at colleges.

Whatever the makeup of his audiences, Flatt has been performing successfully since 1939 when he appeared on a radio show in Covington, Va. At the time he was a textile mill worker and "we just played for a hobby."

His hobby later turned into a profession in 1944. Later came the "Foggy Mountain Boys" — the Scruggs-Flatt combination which produced millions of record sales.

When the fabled pair called it quits, Flatt said, "It hurt. I didn't want to work any dates for six months because I wanted people to get used to Lester Flatt without Earl Scruggs."

Flatt can consider his mission accomplished.

More 18-year-olds signing for draft

By JERRY T. BAULCH
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Selective Service says more 18-year-olds are registering for the draft than last year when presidential authority to draft men expired.
Byron V. Pepitone, Selective Service director, credited the switch to a publicity campaign he ordered to let the young men know they still have to register. Registrations were lagging appreciably in the first half of 1972 because so many thought the draft was dead entirely.
"Some pockets of resistance still remain, particularly in the industrialized areas of New England, although the situation is improving," he told a reporter.
According to Justice Department figures, there were 8,893 pending cases against draft law violators through Nov. 1, in addition to 7,933 convicted since 1964.
Meanwhile, Pepitone said he plans to hold the annual draft lottery early in March for this year's crop of 18-year-olds. This will assign to those born in 1955 callup numbers in case the drafting of men is resumed. Men keep their same numbers as long as they are eligible to be called, normally age 26.

He said registrations lagged considerably from January until July of last year before his publicity campaign to remind young men they break the law if they fail to register within 30 days before or after their 18th birthday.
Although draft authority did not expire until June 30 nobody was inducted between January and July, the period when registrations dropped.
"Because of the erroneous thinking that the draft was dead during the first six months of the year, a large percentage of young men have been registering late," Pepitone said.
"Generally, local boards have taken the erroneous thinking into consideration and allowed the young men to register late, especially if registrants do not exhibit having wilfully intended not to register."
Selective Service is predicting that 1,907,000 will register during the current fiscal year that ends next June 30. In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1971, there were 1,990,000 registrants and in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1972, registrants totaled 1,991,000.
In the fiscal year that ended last June 30, the number fell to 1,854,000.
Selective Service is not supposed to send the FBI or the Justice Department cases that do not seem clear violations of draft law.

Pepitone explained that the registration enables Selective Service to maintain a current inventory of the nation's military manpower to assure an effective response to a national emergency.

Bad trends for home buyers

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The average mortgage granted to the buyer of a new, single-family home last month was at a rate of 8.36 per cent for 26.1 years in the amount of $28,800, or 75.3 per cent of the total purchase price of $38,900.

These figures, from the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, add up to rather bad news for those contemplating the purchase of a new home, not merely because of the figures themselves, but because of the trends:

—Interest rates continued to rise.

—Lenders were tending to shorten the pay back period.

—Down payments were rising.

—The prices of houses were rising.

Nevertheless, thousands of families will be buying new homes in the coming year because of necessity or choice, the latter often dictated by the fear that prices, like time, wait for no man.

In January, for example, the national average price of new homes was $35,800, but by November it had risen $3,100 to $38,900. Whether the rise will continue is debatable, but the trend is there.

Here are some other guides to borrowers that can be extracted from the figures:

—The lowest interest rates were charged by mutual savings banks, with an effective percentage of 8.11, compared with 8.36 per cent by savings and loan associations, 8.37 by commercial banks and 8.67 by mortgage companies.

—The longest maturities were offered by mortgage companies. They permitted an average of 29.3 years in which to pay back the loan, followed by savings and loan associations with 27 years, mutual savings banks 26.1 and commercial banks 21.5 years.

—Mortgage companies offered the highest loan to price ratio, permitting the home owner to borrow 82.5 per cent of the purchase price. The ratio for savings and loan association was 77.3, mutual savings banks 68.6 and commercial banks 68.3.

—Despite generally more difficult terms for the borrower, lenders seem willing to continue maturities for relatively long periods. Mutual savings bank maturities have actually risen in recent months.

While industry and government analysis believe that housing starts will drop well below two million units in 1974 after being well over that mark for three years, there are a couple of encouraging signs.

First, the billion dollars in funds that the thrift institutions watched being withdrawn during last summer, the result of vast disparities in interest rates, is slowly flowing back.

If that trend continues—and the lending institutions aren't sure that it will—it could mean somewhat better terms for borrowers in the spring or summer.

Second, incomes and savings rates are fairly healthy, meaning that many families are in a position to make big capital commitments if the general economic climate improves.

48-year separation ended by one couple

MOSES LAKE, Wash. (AP) — A 48-year separation ended for Arlene and Jack Dalton here last week. The two 78-year-olds were remarried.

Mrs. Dalton, of Moses Lake, and her husband were first married 51 years ago, but divorced three years later.

They had not seen each other for 48 years, they said, but met face-to-face a few days before the wedding.

The couple began correspondence and telephone calls last summer when Mrs. Dalton learned that her husband's second wife had died.

Air Force twins

The only identical twin recruits currently serving in the Air Force, left to right, Sandy Meikle and Susan Fedal, found that some Christmas gifts come early. The two Denver, Colo., natives recently re-enlisted and were promoted to staff sergeant rank. They are working as recruiters in the Dallas, Tex., area. (UPI)

Men plead innocent

PLATTSBURG, Mo. (AP) — Three men charged with involuntary manslaughter in the Sept. 27 shooting death of St. Joseph union leader Charles R. (Dick) Smith pleaded innocent at their arraignment Monday.

David E. Todd, 46, Onarga, Ill.; Stanley K. Dawson, 24, St. Joseph, and Lawrence J. Garvey, 40, St. Joseph, were held on bonds of $7,000 each.

Christmas concert

In spite of icy roads and rain mixed with sleet, a large crowd filled the Smith-Cotton High School auditorium Tuesday night for the S-C Christmas Choral Concert. The program included an evening of traditional

Ford, GM attorneys battle antitrust suit

DETROIT (AP) — Attorneys for Ford and General Motors say the government's contention that the automakers entered into a silent agreement to fix prices on fleet sales is based on innuendo and speculation.

"Not a single witness took the stand to say there was an agreement," General Motors attorney Fred Bartlit said in final arguments Tuesday in United States District Court.

The jury was to begin deliberating Wednesday the government's charge in the criminal antitrust suit that the nation's two largest automakers reached an implied agreement with a dealers' association and a leasing firm in 1969 and 1970 to fix prices in the lucrative fleet market.

Fleet price changes, amounting to millions of dollars in sales each year, were made nearly simultaneously by the two firms in the spring of 1970 in stages that the government alleges involved signals between the makers.

The government's case in the 3½-month trial was based largely on memoranda that recorded meetings involving auto executives and officials of the National Automobile Dealers Association and of the auto leasing firm Peterson, Howell & Heather, Inc.

Antitrust attorney William Plesce said GM and Ford, communicating through the dealers group, agreed in 1969 to put cost pressure on Chrysler Corp., which was gaining a growing part of the fleet market after initiating fleet discounts in 1962.

Mother, children die

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — A mother and her five children died early Wednesday when a blaze destroyed the second floor of a wooden two-family dwelling, fire officials said.

Authorities identified the victims as Elizabeth Forest, 23, and her children — Isaac, 8; Cathy, 7; Lilie Mae, 6; Lorine, 4; and Michael, 3.

"The bodies of the six were found piled under a bed" on the second floor of the two-story building, said Richard King, spokesman for the Orange County Sheriff's office.

Officials originally reported that five children and one teenager were killed in the blaze and that the mother was identifying the bodies.

"There was a lot of confusion as to who was and who wasn't killed," King said. "At first, we thought the mother was a 16-year-old sister of the dead children."

Investigators said the fire apparently was started by a candle.

"They were using candles because the electricity was shut off Tuesday," King said. "A neighbor told us one candle was sitting on a plastic cover on the dresser."

Authorities said 14 persons were in the building when the blaze broke out but the family of Clarence Williams, living on the first floor, was able to escape without injury, authorities said.

Williams said after the fire broke out he tried to awaken the Forest family by yelling and pounding on the building but they did not respond.

"The upstairs was a ball of fire," Williams said.

Authorities said they were attempting to notify the unidentified father who lived at a different address.

The gestation period of a giraffe is 14 to 15 months.

State aid is received for schools here

The second of four state aid payments to Pettis County schools has been received from the State Department of Education, County Treasurer Virgil Houchens said Tuesday.

The breakdown is as follows: Sedalia No. 200, $401,284; Green Ridge R-8, $34,009; La-Monte R-4, $29,484; Hughesville R-5, $31,508; Dresden R-12, $2,832; Sweet Springs R-1, $2,509; Smithton R-6, $58,910; 6, $58,910.

Houchens said the checks probably would be mailed to the school districts next week. The next state aid payment is due in March.

Woman insisted plants 'lavenders'

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — Mrs. Arthur Laborde insisted that the plants in her flower garden must be lavender because that's what she bought at the local feed store.

Police Chief Jack Rogers said the 67-year-old woman will not be charged because she didn't know what she was growing.

Mrs. Laborde called police after local teen-agers told her the "lavenders" were really marijuana.

Portable X-ray is bought by hospital

The Bothwell Hospital Board of Trustees voted to purchase a $15,300 portable X-ray machine for the hospital addition Tuesday night.

The X-ray machine was budgeted to be purchased with the rest of the equipment for the addition, but Hospital Administrator Donald Feeback was informed the price of the machine will go up 8 per cent Jan. 1, so the board voted to order the machine now, and save $1,200.

The machine is a battery-operated portable unit which is several thousand dollars more expensive than a machine which can operate off the hospital's electrical current, Feeback said.

He explained the X-ray department requested a battery-operated unit because fluctuations in the hospital electrical current sometimes resulted in distorted X-ray pictures.

The new unit is not expected to be delivered for six months, Feeback said.

The board also voted to accept three new doctors to the hospital's staff.

Dr. Herbert B. Rubin was accepted to the active staff and granted full surgical privileges. Dr. Rubin is a graduate of the McGill University (Montreal) medical school.

Dr. Larry E. Lee was accepted to the active staff and granted full radiology privileges. Dr. Lee is presently employed at the Whiteman AFB Hospital.

Dr. Sami B. Elhassani, who presently has an office in Jefferson City, was granted full pediatric privileges.

The Ladies Auxiliary collected $1,200 from a fund-raising telethon held Dec. 1, $300 short of the goal. The Auxiliary was hoping to purchase two stretcher beds for the emergency room.

Board member James Keck reported that construction on the hospital addition is proceeding at a regular rate, with the roof now attached, and partitions being built on the first floor of the new section.

Firmen Boul, also a board member, reported that a $25,000 treasury note has been purchased. Boul said the money will earn interest instead of being in a non-interest earning account until it is used to purchase equipment for patient rooms in the new addition.

The hospital had a surplus income of $7,991 for the month of November, Boul told the board. In addition, the hospital has exceeded its budget by only one-half of one per cent for the first six months of the fiscal year, Boul reported, with the only problem area being skyrocketing supply costs.

Ozark plans further cuts in air service

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ozark Air Lines, which announced Dec. 1 a 7.3 per cent cutback in service, says it will further curtail its operations next month because of the energy crisis.

The airline, president Edward J. Crane said Tuesday, will reduce its operations in air miles effective Jan. 1 and will cutback an additional 14 per cent Jan. 7.

The reduction, an Ozark spokesman said, will mean elimination of 112 daily departures across the company's 15-state system from 478 maintained daily prior to Dec. 1.

Ozark also announced it will furlough about 300 of its employees systemwide, representing a figure of about 12 per cent of its work force.

Affected by the January cutbacks will be operations in 51 of the 62 cities Ozark serves.

Ann Landers

Mother's attitude is set in concrete

Dear Ann Landers: What should our attitude be toward a son-in-law who insists he is NOT a homosexual, but "bisexual." He has ruined our daughter's life.

We learned of his deviation five years after their marriage. I was so ignorant I thought to be bisexual a person had to have two sets of sex organs.

This man (?) has an obnoxious personality. He has never been wrong in his entire life. He can't hold a job because he is compelled to tell everybody off in language you wouldn't believe.

Because of his rotten attitude about everything, our daughter must be the breadwinner. She was once a beautiful girl but after five years with the nut she looks like the little brown wren and he is the peacock.

Our daughter will not leave him because she "loves" him. Can this be love or is she just as sick as he is? — Need Your Advice

Dear N.Y.A.: Your attitude toward your son-in-law is set in concrete. No point in asking me what it "should be." I suspect your real reason for writing was to let off steam, and I'm glad you did. Your suspicion that the girl is just as sick as he is probably correct. So, accept it, and go about your business.

Dear Ann Landers: You have a lot of advice for people who don't want to drink, but whose friends keep trying to push cocktails on them. How about some help for those who are fighting The Battle of the Bulge?

I've been trying to lose weight for a year. My doctor says I must get rid of 20 pounds. But it's almost impossible.

Whenever I accept a dinner invitation, the hostess pressures me to try this and try that. She says she made it special for me. It's always a rich dish loaded with calories. One "taste" and my willpower is shot.

Is there a solution to this problem? — Hippy Helene

Dear Hip: Yes. Eat at home. Tell your hostess you'll come after dinner — doctor's orders. Then do it. Some people can resist anything but temptation. So — don't go near it.

Dear Ann Landers: Our family consists of seven children, eight grandchildren, five sons-in-law and three parents. This seems to call for an annual outlay of 22 birthday gifts, 22 Christmas gifts and five anniversary gifts. In addition, there is an average of two showers a month — either a bridal shower or a wedding shower for a member of the family or the daughter of a good friend. Then there are the people at work — retiring, moving away or celebrating some occasion that calls for "chipping in" for a gift.

Add them all up and you have 80 gifts a year. Eighty attempts to select something for someone who probably has more of everything than he needs and can use. Also, the day of the $2 gift has passed. You can't get anything worth giving for under $5.

Do you believe all this gift-giving is necessary to show people we love them? — Fed Up

Dear Fed: Cut out all the gift-giving for special occasions and instead buy gifts for NO occasion when you feel like it or when you run into something that seems like an appropriate gift for someone you want to please. This won't be easy but you'll feel better once you've done it. (You'll be surprised at how few people will give a hoot.)

Pledge money to maintain Mo. academy

BOONVILLE, Mo. (AP) — Donations totaling more than $100,000 have been pledged to keep Kemper Military Academy and College in operation for the remainder of the year.

Pledges ranged from $25 to $40,000 and were made during a seven-hour local radiothon. The money was expected to keep the school operating for the remainder of the school year.

Kemper's board of directors appealed Saturday for public funds to keep the 129-year-old institution going.

Enrollment at Kemper this year was 167, down 40 per cent from recent years. R. A. Johnson, chairman of the board, said indications were that next year's enrollment would improve the school's financial picture.

Datebook of guerrilla activity

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Arab guerrilla fire-bomb attack and hijacking that began Monday at a Rome airport was the ninth such Arab terrorist incident this year. The others:

—April 9: Eight Palestinian guerrillas bombed the home of the Israeli ambassador in Nicosia, Cyprus, then attempted to hijack an El Al airliner at the Nicosia airport. Police killed one of them and captured the other seven. They all received long jail terms but were set free and permitted to go to Egypt in December.

—July 19: A lone Palestinian gunman tried to attack the El Al office in Athens, but was thwarted by a bulletproof door. He sought refuge from police in a nearby hotel, seized up to 15 hostages and bargained their lives for safe conduct to Kuwait, where he vanished.

—July 20: Five Arab guerrillas hijacked a Japan Air Lines Boeing 47 jumbo jet on a flight from Amsterdam to Tokyo. A female member of the group was killed when a hand grenade exploded prematurely and a Japanese pursuer was wounded. The plane flew to Dubai where it was held on a blazing desert airstrip for four days before being permitted to fly to Benghazi, Libya, where it was blown up after the passengers and hijackers left the plane.

—Aug. 5: Two Arabs claiming to be members of the Black September guerrilla group launched a hand grenade and machine gun attack at Athens airport, killing three persons and wounding 60 others. The pair was arrested, and participants in Monday's hijacking demanded their release.

—Aug. 16: A man described as a "drunken Libyan" hijacked a Middle East Airlines jetliner on a flight from Tripoli to Beirut and forced it to land at Tel Aviv airport. Israeli authorities later said the man was mentally disturbed and committed him to an asylum.

—Sept. 5: Five Palestinian guerrillas attacked the Saudi Arabian Embassy in Paris and after a one-day siege flew to Kuwait with four hostages. After a two-day holdout at the Kuwait airport in a Saudi airliner, the guerrillas surrendered with their hostages. The terrorists were released in October by the Kuwaitis, who sent them to the fighting front against Israel.

—Sept. 28: Two Palestinian terrorists boarded a train entering Austria from Czechoslovakia and seized three Jews emigrating from the Soviet Union and an Austrian border guard. They extracted a promise from the Austrian government to close down the Schoenau transit camp south of Vienna, used to process immigrants to Israel, and then were permitted to fly out of Austria. The camp was closed.

—Nov. 25: Four Palestinian guerrillas belonging to the Arab Youth Organization for the Liberation of Palestine hijacked a Royal Dutch Airlines Boeing 747 over Baghdad and forced it to fly to Damascus. The plane then hopped to Nicosia, Tripoli and Malta, where the passengers were released and other hostages were taken aboard. It then continued to Dubai, where the hijackers surrendered two days later. There has been no announcement on their fate.

Enzymes needed by the intestines

Dear Dr. Lamb — I would appreciate anything you could tell me about enzymes in the intestines.

I have a little grandson who is 2 years old, and ever since he was a small baby he has had this problem with his bowels. The first of this year he was so bad he became dehydrated and had to be hospitalized. The hospital said he had no enzymes in the intestines to make food into solids and would always have this diarrhea problem. And, of course, he was put on a very strict diet.

Now the little fellow is a typical youngster, runs and plays and enjoys life, but at least three or four times a day, and often many more, he has diarrhea.

The doctors I have talked to all seem so evasive that I am of the opinion that no one really knows too much about the enzyme bit.

Several of my friends have suggested I write to you and perhaps you could tell me if there is really no cure for this problem, or if he will eventually outgrow it. What really causes it? I'll appreciate any information you can give.

Dear Reader — The enzymes in the small intestine that we need to digest our food are from the pancreas or from the juices formed by the intestinal wall. I would guess that your little grandson has a problem with his pancreas.

The enzymes are used to split our carbohydrates down to simple sugars that can be absorbed through the intestine into the bloodstream. They also split the fats and even the proteins down to basic small units that can be absorbed. When this is not done properly, the undigested food is not absorbed, and what is worse, it acts to some extent like a chemical laxative. This is what causes the diarrhea, and sometimes the bloating and abdominal discomfort.

The severity of the problem depends on just how many enzymes are missing. A lot of otherwise healthy adults lack the enzyme to split milk sugar and they only need to guard against milk and foods made with milk. In more extensive loss of enzymes, the diet problems are much more complicated.

Lack of enzymes is usually a result of characteristics present from birth. And, in most cases, the problem is one of managing the person through diet and other medical means, if required throughout life. However, new things are being learned all the time and if the problem is limited to deficient enzymes, perhaps in time it can be managed better.

I know from the rest of your letter that your grandson has been seen by an outstanding medical staff, and I am confident that he has been given the best of care. So, what remains is following their instructions, hoping for the best, and perhaps time will improve the outlook. Or perhaps new advances will eventually make the problem more simple. I do wish there was more to offer at this time, but at least you can be thankful that your grandson was diagnosed early and that so much is known already to help in such cases.

Sour stew leads to law suit for city

NORWICH, Conn. (AP) — Robert Burns says city water soured his family's stew. He's suing for retribution.

Burns wants the city to repay him for two pounds of stew meat, vegetables, rice, two hours of labor, and five per cent interest for the time elapsed since he first submitted a bill to the city water department.

Burns claims in his suit, filed in Small Claims Court, that the city's water tastes like disinfectant and ruined the family supper.

But the city decided Monday to contest Burns' claim for $19.44, saying the city water "was and is still wholesome."

Finley goes into court

BOSTON (AP) — Retiring American League President Joe Cronin juggled a hot baseball situation Wednesday in a hearing for Oakland Athletics owner Charlie Finley, a long-time maverick who has gone to court.

Finley filed a suit in U.S. District Court in San Francisco Tuesday, seeking to prevent Manager Dick Williams from working for any other pro baseball club for the next two years. Williams was named the only defendant.

The action came shortly after Cronin deferred a decision in Detroit's hiring of Manager Ralph Houk by the Tigers. Cronin met for four hours behind closed doors with the Tigers and the New York Yankees. The Yanks were left without a manager by Houk's resignation on the last day of the 1973 season.

In his court suit, Finley asked that Williams, who signed as manager of the Yankees last week, be prevented from joining any other club until fulfilling his Oakland contract through the 1975 season.

Later, contacted in Chicago, Finley said he would come out fighting in his hearing with Cronin.

"As I've always said, if they (the Yankees) want Williams, they can have him with my blessings, as long as they are willing to compensate me."

Finley reportedly has refused a New York offer of veteran second baseman Horace Clarke and, later, a $150,000 cash deal along with some minor league players.

Asked what compensation he would want, Finley said:

"Well, mostly players who are good prospects. From our law suit filed today, at least they know we mean business."

Cronin, who will turn over the league presidency to Yankees General Manager Lee MacPhail Jan. 1, was faced with one of his toughest decisions since accepting the job in 1959.

He met with General Manager Jim Campbell of the Tigers, Houk and Yankees President Gabe Paul for four hours Tuesday. McPhail and attorneys for all, with a stenographer taking the minutes, were on hand.

Houk had two years left on his contract when he resigned as New York manager on Sept. 30. He later signed with the Tigers, with apparent blessings from the Yankees.

Williams quit with two years left on his Oakland contract immediately after his A's won the World Series. He thought he had Finley's okay, but found out within a few days he didn't. Finley demanded player compensation, which the Yankees, in turn, wanted from Detroit.

Cronin, calling the hearings as an absolute judge under what he called rules of the baseball constitution, deferred a ruling on the Houk case after the long meeting with Campbell, Paul, McPhail, Houk and the others.

"I have to weigh all the evidence," Cronin said, referring to a meeting with Finley and the Yankees.

Stover trips Northwest Mustangs

(Democrat-Capital Service)

HUGHESVILLE — Northwest fell behind early and couldn't quite catch Stover in Kaysinger Conference basketball action here Tuesday night and suffered a 60-54 setback, the ninth of the season for the Mustangs.

Northwest had four more field goals than did Stover, but the Bulldogs connected on 24 of 34 charity tosses, which paved the way to victory. Northwest had 27 trips to the line, but was successful on only 10.

Stover, which moved its league record to 2-1 with the victory placed three players in double figures — Ron Hodges (19), Kurt Hagedorn (13) and Mark Stevens (10).

Northwest also had three in double figures — Alan Meyer (16), Kerry Schroeder (16) and Bill Killian (11).

Stover stands at 3-7 overall. Stover also won the junior varsity and the volleyball games. Randy Fischer led the Stover jayvees to a 49-21 victory.

Stover's girls volleyball team won their match in two straight games, 15-12, 15-2.

Ball goes wild

The Blues' center, Fred Rothwell (56) of Kansas State University, shoves Grays' linebacker Mike Denney (51), of Southern Mississippi University, away from a fumbled ball. Rothwell centered the ball to quarterback Carl Summerell of East Carolina University, who fumbled and kicked the ball back through the legs of Rothwell. The Blues lost possession on that play, but later beat the Grays 20-14, the first time in five years. The game was played at Montgomery, Ala.

Blues go on to victory

Leaves during contest

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — What does a head coach do when his team falls short on a fourth-down play?

If he's Coach Jack Christiansen, head mentor of the North in Tuesday night's Blue-Gray football game, he leaves the stadium and goes home.

But not because he's worried. Christiansen had to catch an early flight back to Stanford and, besides, his team was doing pretty well — the Blue was six points ahead on the strength of two field goals by a player who had never kicked one in a game in his life.

And Christiansen had a pleasant flight home. The six-point lead held up over the last few minutes to preserve the Blue's 20-14 victory over the Gray in the 36th renewal of the college all-star contest.

Christiansen had to leave Cramton Bowl shortly after his team failed on a fourth-down play at the Gray two. But, as he said as he left the stadium with less than three minutes to go in the game, "We had them backed up."

He also had luck and a fine quarterback on his side.

The luck came on the toe of John Phillips of Xavier, who kicked the first two field goals of his career to give the North its victory margin.

The quarterback was Jesse Freitas of San Diego State, who completed 14 of 23 passes for 168 yards and the go-ahead touchdown in the game.

Freitas connected with speedster Gerald Tinker of Kent State for an 11-yard scoring play in the third quarter to erase the Gray's 14-10 halftime lead.

Phillips later added a 34-yard field goal to complete the scoring. His first field goal was a 29-yard effort in the second period.

The South had gone ahead on touchdown runs of three yards by Barty Smith of Richmond and nine yards by Charles Dancer of Baylor.

In addition to Freitas' scoring pass and Phillips' two field goals, the Blues put points on the board with a first period plunge to paydirt by Pete Taggares of Washington.

Tennessee is named top team

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tennessee State had to show its credentials during the 1973 regular season, then sit on the sidelines during post-season competition hoping that no one else would look too convincing.

No one did — and Tennessee State, which went 10-0 during the regular season, emerged today as the top team in The Associated Press' final small college football poll of the 1973 campaign. The Tigers received 17 first-place votes and 708 points from a national panel of sports writers and broadcasters. They edged Louisiana Tech, 12-1, by two points. Louisiana Tech collected more first-place votes, 21, but had a total of only 706 points.

This was the first time the small college poll had been conducted after the playoffs.

Tennessee State was unable to compete in the playoffs because several Tiger players had used up their post-season eligibility.

Louisiana Tech wound up winning the NCAA college division playoffs with a 34-0 victory over Western Kentucky in the Camellia Bowl.

Western Kentucky, which lost the NCAA Division II championship, finished third in the balloting with 459 votes, while Wittenberg finished fourth after beating Juniata in the Stag Bowl for the NCAA's Division III championship.

Abilene Christian tied for fifth place with Boise State. Abilene Christian defeated previously unbeaten Elon in the NAIA championship game at Shreveport, La.

Grambling, 10-3, was seventh, while Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo was eighth, Hawaii, ninth and Elon, 10th.

Rounding out the top 15 were South Dakota, Jacksonville State, Delaware, North Dakota State and Langston, Okla.

Bennett tosses in 34 to guide Vikings, 74-50

(Democrat-Capital Service)

BUNCETON — LaMonte's Glyndon Bennett fired in 34 points here Tuesday night, including nine in a 21-6 second-period flurry, to lead the Vikings to its seventh consecutive victory, 74-50, in non-conference action.

Bennett, a flashy 5-9 guard, scored from the outside and also penetrated the Bunceton defense for driving lay-ups. Bennett received ample help from teammates Larry Whitworth and back-court mate Rick Jones, both of whom scored in double figures. In addition the 6-0 Whitworth hauled down 10 rebounds.

Bunceton countered with the one-two scoring punch of Mike McCoy and Bill Cahly with 20 and 13 points respectively but could not contend with the Vikings offensive effort.

LaMonte was forced to play most of the game without the services of their number two scorer, Donnie Hittaffer. Coach Larry Ficken rested the flubitten senior forward for most of the contest.

The visiting LaMonte squad jumped out to and early 16-8 advantage when their full-court press took its toll on the small court.

By the half LaMonte had pushed their lead to a 37-14 count leaving the end in little doubt.

LaMonte now stands 8-2 overall, after losing two out of their first three games, and will not play again until Jan. 4 when they meet the same Dragons at LaMonte.

Bunceton took the junior varsity game 37-35 behind the scoring of John Schmidt and Linn Felger.

Scoring

LaMonte (74) — Bennett 34, Whitworth 18, Jones 10, Hittaffer 6, Hughes 4, Taylor 2.

Mustangs upend Warsaw in non-league action

(Democrat-Capital Service)

WARSAW — Too many turnovers and a lack of defense made the difference here Tuesday night as Tri-County Conference foe Eldon downed the Wildcats 85-73.

With both teams using run-and-gun tactics and defense being a minor factor, Eldon jumped to a 7-0 early lead and 24-16 first-quarter margin.

Warsaw changed its pattern somewhat in the second quarter, going inside to 6-3 junior Brad Allen. It paid off temporarily as the Wildcats knotted the count at 40-all with 1:08 remaining. The tie was broken shortly, however, as the visiting Mustangs shot ahead 46-35 at the half. Eddie Halderman, who captured game scoring honors with 35, led the charge.

Tim Hedrick, high-scoring "Cats' guard, was held to only one basket in the first half, which slowed the losers offensive production.

He came back with 14 in the third period before fouling out. This sealed the doom for Coach Larry Thompson's crew.

Allen led the Wildcat attack with 28 points, while Jeff Schroeder's 17 and Steve Vernon's 14 aided Eldon in the victory.

The junior varsity contest was also won by Eldon, 44-36. Bill Evers tallied 12 for the victors; Larry Roark was tops for Warsaw with 12.

Scoring

Eldon (85) — Halderman 35, Schroeder 17, S. Vernon 14, Haney 8, Hickey 6, Evers 2, D. Vernon 2. Warsaw (73) — Steffans 16, T. Hedrick 16, Allen 28, Kinkead 11, Noland 2. Eldon 24 22 23 16—85 Warsaw 16 19 15 23—73

Hadl, Gabriel to lead squad

NEW YORK (AP) — John Hadl, whose restrained passing brought Los Angeles into the playoffs, and Roman Gabriel, whose aerial bombardments made Philadelphia one of the National Football League's most explosive teams, have been voted to quarterback the National Conference in the annual Pro Bowl Game.

Five rookies also were named to the 40-man NFC squad, announced Wednesday. They were tight end Charley Young of Philadelphia, running backs Lawrence McCutcheon of the Rams and Chuck Foreman of Minnesota, punter Tom Wittum of San Francisco and place-kicker Nick Mike-Mayer of Atlanta.

The Jan. 20 game at Kansas City's Arrowhead Stadium will be nationally televised by NBC, starting at 2 p.m. EST. The American Conference, which won last year's game 33-28 at Dallas, leads the series 2-1.

The only unanimous choice in this year's voting by the NFC's 13 head coaches, who were not allowed to vote for their own men, was Dave Wilcox, San Francisco's outside linebacker.

Those making the NFC squad who did not make it last year were Harold Carmichael of Philadelphia, tackle George Kunz and defensive end John Zook of Atlanta, guard Gale Gillingham and cornerback Ken Ellis of Green Bay, center Ed Flanagan of Detroit, defensive end Carl Eller and linebacker Jeff Siemon of Minnesota, linebackers Isiah Robertson of Los Angeles and Lee Roy Jordan of Dallas and strong safety Ken Houston and kick-return specialist Herb Mul-Key of Washington.

All three of the NFC's 1,000-yard gainers — Green Bay's John Brockington (1,144), Dallas' Calvin Hill (1,142) and McCutcheon (1,097) — were selected.

Among the repeaters on the NFC All-Star team are defensive tackle Merlin Olsen of the Rams, who has made it in all of his 12 seasons, and Cowboys' cornerback Mel Renfro, a nine-time choice in nine years.

Central Division champion Minnesota placed seven players on the team, the most of any NFC club. Chicago, New Orleans, St. Louis and the New York Giants were not represented this year.

The AFC team will be announced Thursday.

Georgia gets 94-60 drubbing

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Georgia caught North Carolina State on the rebound . . . and it was too bad for the Bulldogs.

Still feeling pain from an 18-point loss to top-ranked UCLA, North Carolina State made Georgia suffer for it with a 94-60 beating Tuesday night.

"I was very disappointed after the UCLA game," said North Carolina State Coach Norm Sloan, talking about Saturday's 84-66 loss in the battle of college basketball giants.

But he eventually felt a little better after marching through Georgia.

"We showed alertness, quickness and played better defense," said Sloan.

One of the reasons for those qualities was forward Phil Spence, who played 29 minutes and finished with 15 rebounds and 11 points.

In other games Tuesday night, sixth-ranked Marquette turned back Northwestern 77-63; No. 8 Louisville stopped Clemson 74-70 and Florida State upset No. 12 Memphis State 88-80.

David Thompson, held to 17 points by UCLA, exploded for 28 against Georgia. The Wolf-pack ran off a quick early lead and kept hounding the Bulldogs with a full-court press that forced 32 turnovers.

Leading 43-27 at the half, North Carolina State ripped off a 26-9 advantage right after intermission and put the Bulldogs — and the audience — to sleep.

Bo Ellis pumped in 18 points to lead Marquette over Northwestern. Leading 37-31 at the half, the Warriors broke things open with a 20-8 edge over a 10-minute period. Northwestern went almost 3½ minutes without scoring a point in that span.

Two free throws by Wesley Cox with 37 seconds left helped Louisville beat Clemson. Cox two points broke a 70-70 tie that existed since the 3:12 mark when Bill Butler scored a field goal for Louisville.

Reserve center Zack Perkins led a second-half spurge as Florida State knocked back a Memphis State charge and upset the power-laden Tigers.

Elsewhere, James "Fly" Williams scored 16 points and had 11 rebounds in 22 minutes to lead Austin Peay to a 97-64 victory over Bellarmine (Ky.). Luther Burden scored 17 points to lead Utah over Ohio 71-68; Bill Singletary scored 20 points and grabbed 14 rebounds in Mississippi State's 85-77 success over Georgia Tech; Davidson stopped Princeton 66-47 as John Falconi and Greg Dunn teamed for 33 points and Alfonso Brigham fired in a 12-foot jumper with two seconds left to give Los Angeles State a 69-68 victory over Wichita State.

Tony Jenkins had 26 points and 12 rebounds as Harvard defeated Holy Cross 97-89; Roger Banks hit a jump shot with 38 seconds left, leading Colgate to a 42-41 decision over Penn State; Greg Fountain scored 22 points to lead Army to an 80-55 romp over Kings Point; Chicago-Loyola ripped off 15 straight points midway in the first half and rolled past Denver 95-63 and Toledo used a tough zone defense to beat Michigan State 79-51.

Ironies not very uncommon when rookie takes to the ice

By FRED ROTHENBERG
Associated Press Sports Writer

Life is full of little ironies when you're 24 and playing in your first National Hockey League game.

Tuesday morning, Bill

McKenzie was an American Hockey League goalie and he was missing his 11 o'clock jumbo jet plane.

But Tuesday night, Bill McKenzie was in the NHL, not missing a little three inch puck and saving the Detroit Red Wings' 4-4 tie with the Los Angeles Kings.

Elsewhere in the NHL, the New York Islanders and Vancouver Canucks skated to a 2-2 tie and the Montreal Canadiens whipped the California Golden Seals 4-1.

In the World Hockey Association, the Chicago Cougars and Winnipeg Jets finished in a 3-3 tie; the Quebec Nordiques beat the Edmonton Oilers 4-2; the Toronto Toros scored the Jersey Knights 4-1 and the Vancouver Blazers tripped the Los Angeles Sharks 5-2.

Though McKenzie had trouble catching his plane to Detroit, he was in the right place and right on time late in the third period. Mike Murphy had a breakaway and a chance to uneven a 4-4 tie and pull out the Kings' first victory in Detroit in six years.

But he was grounded by McKenzie.

"All I thought about was to keep my legs together, cut the angle down and stay with him all the way," McKenzie said. "He didn't try to fake me, just gave me one shoulder and a shot. The puck hit me. I fell on it and everything turned out all right. I felt tremendous — like I was home."

Maybe he is now.

Canadiens 4, Seals 1
Montreal goalie Michel Larocque assisted on a first-period goal by Frank Mahovlich and stopped 30 of California's 31 shots in helping the Canadiens beat the Seals.

Canucks 2, Islanders 2
Don Lever's eighth goal of the season at 13:32 of the first period lifted the Vancouver Canucks into a tie with the New York Islanders.

Nordiques 4, Oilers 2
The Quebec Nordiques beat the Edmonton Oilers which wasn't the only beating going on in Quebec.

Both players' benches emptied after Edmonton's Doug Barrie and Jean Guy Gendron collided. Barrie took a swing at the Quebec player with his stick, prompting Serge Bernier of the Nordiques to join the fracas.

Jets 3, Cougars 3, tie
The Chicago Cougars scored all their goals in the final 12:41 of play to tie the Winnipeg Jets.

Toros 4, Knights 1
Pat Hickey and Tom Simpson scored goals eight seconds apart in the first period, triggering the Toronto Toros to their victory over the Jersey.

Blazers 5, Sharks 2
Defensemen Ron Plumb and John Migneault scored power play goals in the second period, breaking a 2-2 tie as the Vancouver Canucks went on to beat the Los Angeles Sharks.

Hawks' losing skein is ended by 98-91 victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Atlanta Hawks snapped a five-game National Basketball Association losing streak Tuesday night by defeating the Capital Bullets 98-91.

Walt Bellamy held the Bullets' Elvin Hayes to 12 points, nine below his average, and Pete Maravich scored 34 points as the Hawks climbed to within two games of the first-place Bullets in the NBA's Central Division.

Elsewhere, the Los Angeles Lakers edged the Milwaukee Bucks 109-107, the Boston Celtics trimmed the Golden State Warriors 125-106, the Seattle SuperSonics nipped the Chicago

Bulls 93-92, the Portland Trail Blazers trounced the Phoenix Suns 133-117 and the Buffalo Braves downed the Cleveland Cavaliers 100-93.

No games were scheduled in the American Basketball Association.

The Bullets, playing their second game in the new $16 million Capital Center in Largo, Md., made a spirited rally. They trailed 84-68 after three quarters but trimmed the deficit to 90-89 with three minutes left. But Hayes fouled out at that point and the Bullets' defense collapsed.

Kevin Porter came off the bench to lead Capital with 23 points. Lou Hudson helped Maravich with 28 for the Hawks.

Lakers 109, Bucks 107

Jimmy Price, playing for the ailing Jerry West, made a 25-foot jump shot at the buzzer to give Los Angeles its victory. Price finished with 16 points. Teammate Gail Goodrich led all scorers with 40. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar topped Milwaukee with 37.

Celtics 125, Warriors 106
Jo Jo White hit six quick points in the closing minutes of the second quarter to start Boston on the way to victory.

The defeat, third in a row for the Warriors, cut their lead over Los Angeles to 12 percentage points in the Pacific Division.

Sonics 93, Bulls 92
Kennedy McIntosh's got the winning basket on a jump shot with two seconds left after the Sonics all but blew the game in the final quarter after leading by as many as 16 points.

Trail Blazers 133, Suns 117
Geoff Petrie scored 37 points and John Johnson 28 as Portland pulled away in the final period and beat Phoenix in Portland for the first time in 10 tries.

Braves 100, Cavaliers 93

Jim McMillian and Garfield Heard led a fourth-quarter surge that enabled Buffalo to pull away from a tie and defeat Cleveland for the fourth time in as many meetings this season.

"We're ready to set Chicago and its football fans on fire," said Tom Origer, right, owner of the Chicago Fire, an entry in the new World Football League, as he announced that Jim Spavital, left, will be the team's head coach. Spavital, 47, was formerly the head coach of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Canadian Football League. Origer announced that the Chicago Fire will play home games at Soldier Field. (UPI)

'The Chicago Fire' is here

New flame in football

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Fire sounded the gong Tuesday for the club's entry in the new World Football League with a coach, a playing site and claim of 40 contracted players.

Owner Tom Origer, 40, a Chicago construction magnate, Tuesday unveiled Jim Spavital, former Canadian Football League coach, as the mentor of the WFL club which will confront the Chicago Bears for local patronage.

Origer also announced the nickname of Chicago Fire (singular), contending "it's a strong name, it's Chicago, it's a name with promotional handles."

Origer, also general manager, did not identify the 40 players from college and pro ranks he says he has under contract.

He said the proposed 10-club WFL, set for a late July debut, will hold a draft of National Football League players in late January and a college draft in mid-February.

"But right now, I'm going after anybody I think can help us," said Origer, a millionaire builder of apartments and condominiums.

Origer said he expects to sign a final contract shortly for use of Soldier Field, the big stadium fronting Lake Michigan which also is the home base of the rival National Football League's Bears.

The 47-year-old Spavital, dismissed by the Winnipeg Blue Bombers after four head coaching years, is a former Oklahoma State running back who played pro ball with the former Los Angeles Rams and the NFL's Baltimore Colts.

At Winnipeg, Spavital led the Bombers to third (1971) and first (1972) place finishes in their division and then was fired when the Canadian League club dropped to the bottom last year.

Origer said other going WFL franchises include New York, Boston, Toronto, Honolulu, Washington, Detroit, Southern California (at Anaheim or Los Angeles), Birmingham and Orlando-Jacksonville.

The league is talking about playing Wednesday and Thursday nights, between late July and late November, but Origer's preference is Friday night.

Pennant chances improve

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Cedric Tallis, general manager of the Kansas City Royals, says next year his team will have the best shot at the American League pennant that it's ever had.

"We feel like this is our year," he said Tuesday at a press luncheon.

Tallis and Manager Jack McKeon agreed that winter trades have greatly strengthened a 1973 weak spot—pitching.

"We went after pitching in the trades and I think we got it," Tallis said.

The Royals acquired three pitchers, starters Marty Pattin and Nelson Briles, and veteran reliever Lindy McDaniel.

With the added pitching strength, McKeon said, he is toying with the idea of a five-man starting rotation in place of the traditional four-man squad.

"We may even jump around from a four-man rotation to a five-man, then back to four," he said. "Of course, it's a little early to say for sure."

The flurry of trades, however, has also taken from Kansas City two starting outfielders, Louw Piniella in left and Ed Kirkpatrick in right. And McKeon conceded the outfield now is a question mark.

"But we think we have some excellent young players with great potential ready to move in," he said.

Candidates for right field include Hal McRae and Rick Reichardt, who saw duty mostly as designated hitters last season. Jim Wohlford, a product of the Royals' farm system who starred at Omaha in the American Association, is the most likely replacement for Piniella.

"Jim made tremendous improvement last season, particularly in the last month of the season," McKeon said. "I think he's ready to move right in."

Enriching other people aim of Rothschild living in Israel

Benefactress

One of Baroness Batsheva de Rothschild's involvements in her adopted homeland of Israel is with dance. Here, she's shown with dancers of the Bat Dor dance company she founded in 1967. The Baroness, a member of the Jewish banking dynasty of Rothschild, also quietly dispenses her own millions to support arts and crafts, science and music in Israel, where she has been a permanent resident since 1962 — and where she intends to stay. "I want to be here, war or no war," she says. (AP)

By EDITH M. LEDERER
Associated Press Writer

TEL AVIV (AP) — Her great-uncle Edmond was the financial father of Palestine. Her brother Guy and cousins are among Israel's greatest benefactors. But Baroness Batsheva de Rothschild is the first member of the Jewish banking dynasty to make her home in the promised land.

For nearly a dozen years the 59-year-old baroness has lived in a beautifully landscaped modern home just outside Tel Aviv, quietly dispensing her own fortune to support arts and crafts, science, music and the dance in Israel.

She grew up in luxury few Jews have ever known. Her father, the late Baron Edouard de Rothschild who headed the French branch of the family, shuttled between his opulent play palaces at Ferrieres and Chantilly.

But she is no stranger to trouble. She fled to the United States with her family at the outset of World War II but returned to England to join Charles de Gaulle's Free French Army. Friends said she carried out several confidential missions before returning home after France was liberated.

The October Mideast war found her living in Israel — but Batsheva de Rothschild said in a rare interview she had no intention of leaving her adopted homeland.

"I want to be here, war or no war," she said. "I wouldn't stay if I didn't want to. Besides, I understand it's more dangerous to walk the streets of New York than to be in Israel."

Her family pioneered here. Her great-uncle, Baron Edmond, began financing the Jewish colonization of Palestine in the 1880s and spent the next 50 years building an agricultural and industrial base for Israel.

to-be although he was staunchly anti-Zionist.

Her cousin, the present Baron Edmond de Rothschild, runs the empire his grandfather built and currently is constructing a luxury golf resort at Caesarea near where Romans threw Jews to the lions centuries ago.

Her brother, Baron Guy de Rothschild, who now heads the French banking house, is president of the United Jewish Appeal in France and her English cousins are leading fund raisers for Israel in Britain.

In Israel, the name Rothschild is synonymous with benefactor. When the song "If I Were A Rich Man" from "Fiddler On The Roof" was translated into Hebrew it began "If I Were A Rothschild."

But petite, blue-eyed Batsheva de Rothschild has always worked quietly behind the scenes, shunning publicity and avoiding the lavish jet-set whirl of her European relatives.

She is considered one of Israel's "beautiful people" but her life here is certainly not as "beautiful" as the life she gave up in Europe.

She has exquisite jewelry, but she often forgets to wear it. She loves animals and has six stray dogs. She's also a crossword puzzle nut and often does puzzles over the phone with a friend — even in Hebrew.

Born in England, raised in France, she studied biology in Paris and at Columbia University and was briefly married to Donald Bloomingdale, the New York department store magnate, in the late 1940s.

When she arrived in New York in 1940, the baroness walked into the studio of modern dance innovator Martha Graham and began a lifelong romance with the dance.

She supported Martha Graham's fledgling company, housed them in a building she owned and traveled throughout the world with them — including a stop in Israel in 1956.

Although she first visited Israel in 1952, a year after her divorce it was really the 1956 trip with Martha Graham that first involved her with Israel.

"We were visiting housing projects," she recalled, "when someone suggested that research should be done on better types of housing so I sponsored a study project where sample housing projects were built."

Later that year, she was back in Israel. Then the Sinai campaign, and a friend recalls, "she became involved."

In 1957, Ruth Dayan, ex-wife of Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, asked her if she would look into opening an outlet for Israeli handicrafts in New York.

That's how Batsheva Crafts was born.

It is now a profit-making venture with exports all over the world, mainly of glass, ceramics, copper and jewelry.

Once Batsheva Crafts opened in 1958, the Baroness found herself spending more and more time in Israel. First, she bought an apartment, then she built a suburban house with a swimming pool. Finally, in 1962, she came a permanent resident.

In New York, she had established the B. de Rothschild Foundation for the Advancement of Science in Israel. In Tel Aviv, she created the Batsheva de Rothschild Foundation for the Advancement of Science and Technology. Both are headed by Mrs. Keynan.

In her own quiet way, she helped many other Israelis. She learned, for instance, that the son of an Egyptian-born switch board operator at Bat-Dor was a talented artist and arranged to send him to art school in Paris.

She refused to discuss her contribution to the Yom Kippur war. During fighting, she took over the day-to-day management of her company because the general manager was drafted.

Tests of children will come to an end

BALTIMORE (AP) — A controversial city program of giving school children tests in an effort to identify and treat potential juvenile delinquents will be terminated, says Baltimore Mayor William Donald Schaefer.

"For all intents and purposes the program is dead," the mayor said. "We will not consider refunding that program. It is too much of a controversy."

For more than a year the city school system quietly tested 4,500 children in an effort to determine which showed signs of "misadaptive behavior" which could get them in trouble as they grew older.

The pilot program was an effort to develop psychological tests for later use in all of the city's elementary schools. City school researchers asked for $2.4 million to expand the program.

The program, financed in part by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, was criticized as being totalitarian in concept, subject to possible abuse by government agencies and tending to stigmatize children.

Sedalia, Missouri, Wednesday, Dec. 19, 1973—Section C

Opinion takes steam out of possible candidates for city attorney

By JACK SCHICHT
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer
The election for city attorney next spring may be the "Non-race" of the year.

City Attorney Robert Liston says he probably won't run for a second term. Craig Cassing, who had planned to run for the office, says he has changed his mind. And some local attorneys admit that none of their colleagues may run for office.

The unpopularity of the office is mostly due to an opinion rendered last month by an advisory committee of the Missouri Bar Administration. The opinion, which in essence is binding, says that a city attorney may not serve as a defense attorney for a client in any court.

In short, the ruling hurts city attorneys financially.

Liston estimates that before the ruling about a third to a fourth of his income was derived from criminal defense work in the Circuit and Magistrate Courts of Pettis and Benton Counties. Now this income is gone.

"I've had to turn down three people (criminal cases) since the opinion came out," Liston says.

As city prosecutor, Liston prosecutes persons charged in Sedalia police court with violating city ordinances. As a defense attorney, Liston also defended persons charged with violating state statutes. Liston's job is not to be confused with the job of Pettis County Prosecuting Attorney Gary Fleming, who prosecutes persons in Magistrate and Circuit Courts.

Liston says that "not being able to offer all services" hurts him more than the loss of income from criminal work.

"It (the opinion) takes away one of the services I can offer," he says. "This means that if one of my clients on a civil matter wanted me to defend him in court on a criminal charge, I'd have to refer him to someone else."

According to Harold Barrick, chairman of the bar committee of the Missouri Bar Administration, the advisory committee "deemed it improper" for an attorney to serve as both prosecutor and defense lawyer. "Even though there is no real conflict of interest, it gives the appearance of impropriety," he said.

Despite his loss of income, Liston says the opinion of the committee was "proper." Many times people don't understand the distinction between Fleming and myself."

Not all local attorneys agree with Liston, however.

John C. McCloskey, who served as city attorney for eight of the last 13 years, says he hopes the committee members will "reconsider their opinion." He added that the loss of income would make the office "restrictive," especially to young lawyers.

Cassing, who began his law practice in Sedalia this summer, says the opinion will be a "real blow to cities... I can see justification for the opinion — the theory to avoid the appearance of impropriety — but I don't know if anyone will be interested in the office. Right now I know of no one."

The job of city attorney pays $225 a month for "about 17 hours of work a month," Liston says. Only attorneys are eligible to file for the office.

Cassing pointed out that a lawyer could probably equal the city attorney's salary just through court appointments to represent indigent persons in the state courts. The state just recently began paying lawyers for the time they spend representing such persons.

In order to get an attorney to run for the job, Cassing says, the city probably would have to increase the salary to make it financially lucrative, or possibly combine the jobs of city counselor and city attorney at an annual salary of $6,000.

One attorney noted that a lawyer who does not handle criminal cases might be interested in the city attorney's job, since the lack of criminal cases would not mean a loss of income. However, since 1960, each of the three city prosecutors — McCloskey, Adam Fischer and Liston — has handled criminal work.

Barrick says the Bar Administration "recognizes the difficulties" the opinion may cause. However, he adds, the advisory committee's function was to render an opinion based only on "ethical considerations."

Barrick indicated the opinion will be circulated soon in a bar publication. He added that the opinion was requested by a county prosecuting attorney.

He said that since the opinion, several lawyers have complained about it. A local bar association also passed a resolution asking the committee to reconsider its ruling, he added.

Nature's touch

The winter sun sets and silhouettes some pilings and the Belinda Street bridge in Bay City, Mich., as the Saginaw River fills with ice — the first "solid" sign that winter is here. The bridge, built nearly a century ago, is said to be one of the most dangerous spans in the nation and is being replaced by a multi-lane modern structure. (UPI)

Shootout conviction upheld

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Missouri Court of Appeals has upheld the conviction of Thomas McCreary, 28, a former Black Panther from New York, in connection with a 1972 shootout with St. Louis police.

McCreary, who was free on $30,000 appeal bond in the St. Louis case, is being held in New York in connection with charges stemming from a 1971 Miami bank robbery.

The former Black Panther was sentenced to three 20-year prison terms, to be served concurrently, in connection with a shootout in which a St. Louis policeman was wounded and one of McCreary's companions was killed. He was charged with three counts of assault with intent to kill.

Police had stopped a car occupied by four men on a routine traffic check when shooting erupted. One of the men was shot to death, one escaped and McCreary and Ronald Brown, 28, were captured. Brown was also convicted and sentenced in the case.

At the time Brown was convicted, he was under indictment in connection with the slaying of two New York police officers.

A plan to improve juvenile facilities

A special joint legislative subcommittee has come up with some sensible recommendations for improving Missouri's juvenile facilities.

Under the chairmanship of Sen. Ike Skelton, D-Lexington, the Subcommittee on Juvenile Correctional and Rehabilitative Problems has taken a long, hard look at the state's facilities and finds them wanting.

The most pressing need, the subcommittee said, is for maximum security units to house hyper-aggressive and incorrigible male children. The panel suggests that two be built, near both St. Louis and Kansas City. These would drain off the "hard-core" juvenile offenders who currently are not only a problem in themselves, but terrorize other inmates and turn state facilities into a training ground for crime.

At the other extreme, a system of group homes should be developed for juvenile offenders who require only minimum security, the subcommittee urges.

In between, it calls for a network of regional training facilities to handle those falling into the medium security category.

Other recommendations include abolishing the State Board of Training Schools and replacing it with a director of youth services; drastically reducing the population of the training school at Boonville and utilizing it and the one at Chillicothe as regional centers; and adopting a "go-slow" approach on making juvenile institutions "co-educational," which, no doubt to the amazement of some, has been recommended by the state board.

One of the prime goals of the subcommittee's proposals is to give juvenile judges a much broader range of choices when dealing with offenders than they now enjoy.

The Joint Legislative Committee looks like it has done its homework pretty well. Its recommendations deserve serious consideration as an alternative to Missouri's current juvenile system, which cries out for improvement.

BERRY'S WORLD

"I hope that white fur trim on your suit is synthetic and not from an animal!"

Nixon won't heed resignation talk

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA News Analyst

WASHINGTON — This capital is buzzing with talk of a theoretical plan which supposedly could induce President Nixon to resign within a few months at most. My sources, knowledgeable about his makeup, think it wouldn't work.

Blossat

The basic notions underlying the plan are these:

✓ Leaders in the American economic community are totally disillusioned over the President's prospects of governing effectively in the rest of his term, want him out, and are pressing their views heavily upon top Republicans.

✓ Many Republicans, in Congress, in the governorships, in the party organization, are not only responsive to such pressures but increasingly concluding on their own that the President may be a devastating liability to the GOP's hopes in both the 1974 and 1976 elections.

✓ No relief for Mr. Nixon which might alter these judgments is seen either on the Watergate front, where indictments and trials and further damaging disclosures seem inescapable to many, or on such major matters in the domestic realm as the confused energy crisis.

Given these circumstances and assumptions, the tactic in the "plan" would be for the key Republicans to confer in tight session, and name a small delegation or a single individual to call upon the President and firmly request his speedy resignation for the good of the nation, the party and himself.

The man almost unanimously mentioned to carry the message, either alone or as head of a delegation, is of course Sen. Barry Goldwater, accepted as having maximum weight in the party on this difficult issue.

At this point, Mr. Nixon's cast of mind would be of crucial concern. Up to now, he has dismissed all resignation talk, usually letting it be known one way or another that he viewed it as the conspiratorial conception of his "enemies."

Obviously, against this backdrop, Goldwater's strong opening gambit would have to include some words like these:

"Mr. President, I'm sure you understand that we make this request not as your enemies, but as your friends."

How would this vital plea be received? This is the judgement of one of my most trusted Nixon watchers:

"Right away, these 'friends' would become his enemies. He would do it diplomatically, but he would refuse the request to resign. He would walk away from the meeting as quickly as he could."

And, adds this source, this response would be roughly duplicated by the the Elk Hills oil. Experts in the oil industry estimate that the company would reap more than $1 billion from the commercial opening of Elk Hills.

The Dutch-owned Shell Oil Company would also ring up windfall profits. For the Navy's 80 per cent share of Elk Hills oil must be sold to Shell under a 1970 contract signed by President Nixon. This is worth about $2.6 billion, according to a General Accounting Office estimate.

The decision whether to open the Elk Hills reserve, meanwhile, awaits congressional action.

NIXON AND MILLS: When President Nixon wanted someone to clear him of income tax irregularities, he personally chose an old friend, Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark.

This has caused some sour comment in the cloakrooms on Capitol Hill. If Congress is going to do the President's financial wash, members have complained, the investigation should have gone through the Senate-House leadership and should never have been assigned by the President to the committee of his choice.

Some congressmen suspect that the President deliberately selected Mills as the committee chairman most likely to whitewash the charges. Consider these facts:

✓ Mills' own political skirts are soiled. A Mills associate accepted a $15,000 cash contribution from Gulf Oil to help finance Mills' abortive 1972 presidential bid. The cash was transmitted in a sealed envelope from Gulf's Vice President Claude Wild to Mills' crony Carl Arnold who, as it happens, was a lobbyist for the American Petroleum Institute before opening his own lobbying office.

✓ Gulf pleaded guilty on Nov. 13 to the criminal offense of skimming the contribution from corporate funds. Yet Mills declined to return the $15,000 until we began inquiring into the possibility of federal prosecution. It is a crime punishable by a $10,000 fine and two years in jail to accept a corporate contribution knowingly. Parenthetically, Mills' committee has granted the oil industry tax breaks, which permitted Gulf to get away with a shockingly low 1.2 per cent tax rate in 1972.

✓ Mills' joint committee whitewashed the Internal Revenue Service by claiming it didn't hound those on the White House "enemies list." A painstaking American Civil Liberties Union study showed just the opposite, and a high IRS official has admitted secretly to the Senate Watergate Committee that favors were granted at White House request.

✓ When a White House task force was about to bring more oil into the United States in 1969 over the objections of most oil companies, Mills fired off a telegram to the task force chief warning against "tinkering with oil imports." The task force was overruled by President Nixon's personal oil advisers.

✓ When Mills let it be known he had a speaking engagement on the West Coast, Tenneco, the oil-and-gas behemoth, flew him across the country in a sumptuous private jet. Yet he would have made just as good time in any one of 12 daily scheduled commercial flights.

FOOTNOTE: Mills' office acknowledged he waited a month to pay back the $15,000 after learning it was a criminal contribution. When Gulf requested it, explained a spokesman, Mills paid it immediately with a personal check because his campaign committee had been dissolved. Lobbyist Arnold denied he knew the $15,000 was taken from corporate funds. Gulf's Claude Wild didn't return our calls.

Today's thoughts

Every man should make up his mind that if he expects to succeed, he must give an honest return for the other man's dollar. — Edward H. Harriman, American railroad magnate.

"And I tell you, you are Peter, and on this rock I will build my church, and the powers of death shall not prevail against it." — Matthew 16:18.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Mrs. Dorothea (Dolly) Payne Madison married James Madison in 1794, and when he became president she presided at the first inaugural ball in 1809. The World Almanac recalls. She took part in the dedication of the Washington Monument and sent the first personal message over Samuel F.B. Morse's telegraph wire.

Bussing vote is 'racist'

WASHINGTON — House Speaker Carl Albert (D-Okla.) can order Rep. Bella Abzug's remarks stricken from the record as "unparliamentary," but he can never hide the ugly truth from the nation and the world: racists and demagogues have now seized upon the energy crisis to launch another effort to halt some school busing.

Rowan

I say "some" busing because they aren't about to mess with the vehicles that use 88 per cent of the fuel that goes for busing pupils. Those vehicles are the ones that haul white kids away from the tiny country schoolhouses where they were cheated for years to nice consolidated emporia of education that offer them equality of opportunity.

The political opportunists in the House of Representatives are out to stop only those buses used to haul thousands of black children out of the mean Jim Crow school setups which have been concocted over the years through fiat, gerrymandering, strategic location of buildings and housing discrimination.

In a nation still dripping in scandals and embarrassments, it is a special shame that the House of Representatives would vote, 221 to 192, to prohibit the allocation of fuel for busing children beyond their neighborhood schools "for purposes of racial balance." Those who voted for this amendment are part of a callous effort to make innocent children, long the victims of myriad injustices, special victims of the energy crisis.

Rep. John D. Dingell (D-Mich.), sponsor of this new anti-busing ploy, must want to be re-elected pretty badly to try to exploit the nation's economic miseries this way. He has got a lot of black Americans saying that, while there are few friends more loyal to the cause of racial justice than a converted Southerner, there are few enemies more damaging than a backsliding Northerner.

This House vote would be dismaying under the best of circumstances. But it is especially disheartening when the whole nation is caught in a Watergate sickness which was made possible because those wonderful people who perpetrated the Watergate crimes and excesses first blinded the people with mean rhetoric about busing, job quotas, welfare, law and order.

It seems that a majority in the House hasn't learned a thing from this country's recent dalliances in racism and demagoguery. And it seems that Dingell believes voters in his district are still vulnerable to such appeals to their emotions — even when it ought to be obvious that the ultimate price is the erosion of confidence, the corrosive distrust, the waning of effective leadership which the country sees today.

Rep. Abzug (D-N.Y.) is absolutely right when she says a lot of racism is involved in this anti-busing fervor. Most of the congressmen and newspapermen leaping to use the energy crisis as an excuse to stop the buses are old-time segregationists. From the 1954 Supreme Court decision till today they have fought with a generation of litigation, with "massive resistance," with endless evasions, with no small amount of violence.

They propagandize now about "forced busing" for "racial balance." What they never want the public to understand is that the nation's courts (the Warren court, the Nixon court, they are much the same on this issue) have ordered busing only where it is deemed essential to wipe out injustices.

So what we have in this country is some busing for racial justice, and it must be clear to all who support the Dingell amendment that when they stop the buses, they stop this nation's feeble march toward educational decency and honor.

Dingell claims that to stop busing to achieve desegregation would save 78,300,000 gallons of fuel a year. That isn't even an eyedropper of fuel placed against the massive amounts used in this country every year.

Does the energy crisis panic Congress to the point that Americans would sell their souls for an eyedropper of gasoline? Must we burden an already troubled nation with more emotional bilge about busing? The Senate has said no, so let us hope that the senators will stand tall in the conference committee and beat back the House's disgraceful gambit.

It takes scents

A ton of violet petals produces two pounds of pure essence which sells for about $1,300 an ounce. A violet-type scent has been produced in the laboratory from lemon-grass oil, acetone and sulphuric acid for $1 an ounce.

$1,000 gift to Center

Mary Lee Fechtel, vice-president of Fechtel Beverage, listens while Roger Garlich, left, director of the Children's Therapy Center, 14th and Ingram, explains the programs of the Sheltered Workshop during a tour of the facility Tuesday. Fechtel Beverage contributed $1,000 to the workshop portion of the center on behalf of their retail customers. This contribution, according to Garlich, puts the Center very near the $15,000 goal set in November for its annual campaign. Also shown is Bill Register, manager of Fechtel Beverage. A $50 contribution was presented to the center by the Leisure Club, a recently organized club consisting of 13 retired Sedalians. The club voted to make the contribution a yearly project. Heavy load of calls expected Planning on making that traditional Christmas phone call?

In view of the energy crisis, local citizens should plan ahead even more than usual, local Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. office manager Bob Johnson said Tuesday.

Normally, Johnson said, Southwestern Bell would expect to complete about a half-million phone calls in the state on Christmas Day and approximately 12 million calls nationwide.

However, Johnson said, "We really don't know what to expect with the fuel shortage. But we suspect a lot more people will do their traveling by telephone this year to visit family and friends rather than by fuel-consuming methods."

"Christmas Day is always busy for the phone network," Johnson said. "Chances are that this one will be even more so."

To better insure that their calls go through, Johnson recommended, customers should place their holiday calls the weekend before or after Christmas. "By calling anytime from 8 a.m. Saturday to 5 p.m. Sunday, people who dial their own calls can take advantage of the lower station-to-station weekend rates," he said.

Persons still intent on calling Christmas Day, Johnson said, should place their calls before 10 a.m.; between 3 p.m. and 6 p.m.; or after 11 p.m. Evening rates, he indicated, will be in effect all day Christmas.

CROP march attains its year's goal

The CROP March for Hunger held Nov. 18 has netted about $1,500 to date, the Rev. Roger Sonnenberg announced Tuesday.

"If $100 or $200 more comes in, we should go way over our goal," he said. The goal was $1,200 to $1,500.

"We didn't anticipate going over the goal when we saw how many walkers we had this year," he said. The 80 marchers totaled about the same as other years, but last year there were more sponsors.

"Compared to other marches around the state, this one netted very well. There were marches with 100 to 125 people that didn't do as well as we did," he added.

Mr. Sonnenberg asked marchers to return their donations to him or to Miss Joyce Craig, 1520 West 16th.

Today's hand illustrates both luck in duplicate and the modern expert use of the grand-slam force. North is really excited when he hears his partner's forcing two spade opening bid. Then he just raises to three with every intention of taking strong action later. Then South jumps to five notrump and North can't figure what is going on. He has all he has shown plus at least one ace and his partner is trying for a grand slam. North's first thought is just to bid seven spades. Then he stops to think and decides that his partner must hold either seven spades and six hearts or six of each suit plus the ace of clubs. He really needed that for his grand-slam force. The modernists respond to a grand slam force by bidding seven with two of the three top honors and otherwise showing their trump strength by various gradations. North decides that his trumps are a trifle too good for a mere six club bid and bids six diamonds. South studies a while and decides to settle for just six spades. Where does duplicate luck come into the picture? Because seven spades is a reasonable contract. It makes against almost all even or nearly even breaks in the two major suits but it just doesn't happen to wheel in this time. Science has paid off but the unscientific bidders who went down at seven are entitled to mild complaints.

Stricter drug control

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., told the Senate Health Subcommittee Tuesday that Congress should restrict the promotion of prescription drugs — an activity which he said drug houses spend $5,000 per doctor each year. He asked for a ban on "detail men," the 20,000 persons employed by drug houses to call on doctors with free samples and a pitch for their employers' latest products. (UPI)

Low state mental health salaries 'not competitive'

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Low salaries in the Division of Mental Health that are not competitive with other states was cited as a major problem in keeping quality personnel in Missouri, the division's director said Tuesday night.

Dr. Harold Robb said as many as 50 per cent of psychiatric residents trained in Missouri leave for other states because merit salaries are not competitive.

Robb agreed with Rep. Gladys Marriott, D-Kansas City, who said, "we're just training people ... they don't stay here." Mrs. Marriott voiced her complaint during a House Appropriations Committee hearing Tuesday night.

Many of the residents are trained at the controversial Missouri Institute of Psychiatry (MIP) in St. Louis. Objections to the MIP last year led to suggestions that the training and research facility be phased out. However, Robb said, "I would prefer the MIP be maintained."

Robb said the governor's recommendation for the entire division for fiscal 1974-75 was $102.3 million. That was an increase of about $9.7 million over the division's current appropriation.

The division itself has yet to request a figure for the next fiscal year because it is waiting for an emergency appropriation from the Legislature in January to cover rising costs.

Robb also said there is a great need in the state for assistance for local community mental health programs, which are in increasing demand in Missouri, he said.

Utility advertising measure is debated

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A bill to prevent utilities from using advertising to promote more use of energy was debated Tuesday during a hearing of the Missouri House Consumer Protection Committee.

Rep. Wayne Goode, D-Nor- mandy, is sponsor of the bill. It would prohibit gas or electric utilities from listing as legitimate expenses in rate cases any promotional or advertising costs that increase the use or distribution of power.

Mrs. Alberta Slavin, of the Utility Consumers Council of Missouri, said "the public is confused by advertising urging them to consume while they hear news reports to save."

Mrs. Slavin, of Clayton, said "advertising which promotes use of (energy) is probably irresponsible ... we as consumers pay for this cost of advertising."

Television Ads in St. Louis which urged customers to have dusk-to-dawn lighting, "pan- dered to fear," by showing persons afraid of the dark, she said.

Mrs. Sue Tillema of Colum- bia, representing the Ozark chapter of the Sierra Club, said when utilities advertise for more consumer usage, "what you're doing is promoting continued wasteful use."

Opposition to the bill was voiced by Steve Weber, who said he represented Missouri Power and Light Co. and eight other electric firms in the state. He called advertising a necessary practice to help utilities influence customer usage and thereby even out usage and lessen the problems between peak periods and slack periods.

Weber said if utilities operate at maximum efficiency it keeps costs down. Therefore, he reasoned, it is actually cheaper for consumers when utilities adver- tise.

"Utility advertising can be beneficial by balancing periods of consumption from resources in short supply to resources which are more plentiful," Weber said.

Goode said the bill, while being a consumer protection measure, is also aimed at con- serving energy. It is being con- sidered during the special ses- sion called by the governor. Energy problems was one topic the governor listed in his call.

The committee will discuss the bill with the Public Service Commission before taking ac- tion on it.

SFCC hosts Burlington

The State Fair Community College Roadrunners will hit the hardwood tonight against Burlington, Iowa, in a junior college cage contest in the Agriculture Building on the State Fairgrounds at 8 p.m.

The Bill Barton-coached Roadrunners are hoping to push their 5-7 record to one game under .500 before the Christmas break. This is SFCC's last game until January.

Barton will probably go with the same lineup he has been utilizing. Jack Easley and Billy Townes will probably get the starting call in the back-court with 6-9 freshman Stan McNeil in the pivot.

Veterans Charles Shell and Colles Webb, SFCC's number one and two scorers respectively, will anchor the team at their familiar forward positions.

Burlington, which made a trip to the national tournament at Hutchinson, Kan., two years ago.

Burlington played at Hannibal last night.

Outcome of key bond issue not determined

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Three of 14 bond issues passed easily here Tuesday. But it may be Saturday before it's determined whether the key issue, $30 million convention center, received the two-thirds majority re- quired by Missouri law.

The convention center led by a scant nine votes when the unofficial tally was completed in the 183 precincts. Election officials noted there could be a change of several hundred votes for or against the measure when the official tally is completed Saturday. They say this is often the case due to tabulation errors on election night.

Others winning more than two-thirds majorities were proposals for increased fire protection, to cost $2.45 million; increased police protection, $5.2 million; and water revenue bonds, $10 million.

Each of the 14 proposals, which amounted to a total of $128.7 million, received yes majorities of more than 60 per cent. All but one, however, re- quired a two-thirds majority for passage.

Just over 48,000 Kansas Ci- tians turned out—below the 59-000 predicted by election offi- cials and considerably under the 100,000 Mayor Charles Wheeler Jr., had hoped might vote.

The convention center vote was 32,025 yes, 16,008 no; fire protection 35,610 yes, 12,204 no; police protection 35,029 yes, 12-554 no; water revenue bonds 32,025 yes, 16,008 no.

South Vietnam strategy by Communists outlined

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Com- munist strategy for 1974 calls for gradually widening control in border regions of South Viet- nam while staging sharp guer- rilla-style attacks inside gov- ernment-held areas, U.S. in- telligence analysts say.

The analysts said this strategy was outlined in recent days by Communist leaders in meet- ings with their key officers.

The Communist leaders were said to have told cadremes that a general offensive, like the great Tet assaults of 1968, would be unwise from a polit- ical standpoint.

This tends to reinforce a growing belief among top U.S. officials that the North Viet- namese and their Viet Cong al- lies will avoid a countrywide of- fensive, even though enough troops and supplies are in po- sition to launch such a major push.

U.S. analysts say the long- range Communist plan is to ab- sorb ever larger areas from territory now claimed by the Saigon government, much like a spreading ink spot. This may take years, they say.

According to fresh in- telligence reports, the Commu- nist leaders stressed increased reliance on military action next year to further political goals, chiefly to weaken the hold of the Thieu government.

They instructed field com- manders to expand and link to- gether so-called liberated areas along the border from the northernmost provinces to the Mekong River Delta in the far south.

Since the formal cease-fire in January, the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have occupied land below the old demili- tarized zone.

Meanwhile, Communist troops have established broader control of territory inside South Vietnam's long boundary with Laos and Cambodia and en- gineers have developed supply highways, depots and at least one small port.

The other prong of the 1974 strategy, as U.S. intelligence sees it, involves selective at- tacks on important objectives inside government-dominated rear areas. The recent destruc- tion of much of the Saigon gov- ernment's oil stocks is believed typical of what can be expected next year, probably on an in- creasing scale.

The purpose would be to shake the morale of the Saigon government, to keep its forces on the defensive, and to shake the population's confidence in the government.

In Cambodia, U.S. in- telligence analysts say, the Communist-led insurgent cam- paign appears to be one of slowly strangling Phnom Penh. The insurgents have cut major highways leading from Cam- bodia's biggest port, severing the capital and its population from the rice-growing areas.

American officials believe that insurgent attacks next year probably will be con- centrated on cutting the Mekong Delta convoy lifeline in at- tempts to bring down the present Cambodian govern- ment.

Smithton wins ninth game in row

(Democrat-Capital Service)

VERSAILLES — Smithton hit a torrid 57 per cent from the field Tuesday night and rang up its ninth victory in a row against no losses here Tuesday night, 69-59.

Balanced scoring from Marvin Turner (18), Gene Anderson (13), Jay Teter (12), Rusty Templemire (12) and Martin White (12) was more than enough to offset the 33- point performance by Doug Anderson.

High-scoring Randy Mullins was limited to 13 points by the Smithton defense.

The visiting Tigers took a 21-30 lead into the second half, but Versailles moved to within two points in third quarter. Versailles had the ball three straight times, but couldn't knot the game.

Versailles claimed the junior varsity opener, 45-32. Greg Seigel of Smithton tossed in 17 points to lead all scorers.

Kings to play some of their games in Omaha

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Unless the sky falls, the Kansas City-Omaha Kings will continue to play some of their home games here.

Joe Axelson, Kings' president and general manager, told re- porters Tuesday that the team had signed to play 30 games per year in Kansas City's new Crosby Kemper Arena, leaving 11 dates open for Omaha games.

There had been speculation that the Kings would dis- continue their practice of play- ing games here, because of the new arena in Kansas City, which is expected to cost more than $21.5 million.

Axelson said he could not, at this time, make an official statement that the Kings would return to Omaha next year, but he indicated that the team planned to keep the current ar- rangement alive.

"Barring anything ridiculous, which I can't see, we'll be back with a representative sched- ule," he said.

Last-second shot fells Cards, 72-70

HERMITAGE — Hermitage edged the Lincoln Cardinals, 72-70, here Tuesday on a last-second shot by Chuck Dickerson.

Lincoln, which slipped to 2-9 overall with the non-league loss, led most of the way. At one point, the Cardinals held a 15-point margin.

Hermitage's 25-point final quarter overcame that lead. With the score deadlocked at 70-70, Dickerson let his final shot fly from mid-court.

Cliff Dickerson of Hermitage and Lincoln's Mike Mullins tied for game scoring honors with 21 each.

Baseball star has it easy in his cell

SANTO DOMINGO, D.R. (AP) — Baseball star Cesar Cedeño, charged with voluntary homicide in the death of a 19-year-old woman, apparently will remain in jail at least until Jan. 8.

District Atty. Maximo Henriquez Saladin indicated Tuesday that the star center fielder of the Houston Astros will stay in jail while the courts go on vacation from Dec. 20-Jan. 8.

Cedeño was being kept in preventive custody in Santo Domingo's most modern jail. He has a room of his own and two baseball players who visited him last weekend said he was dancing to music in his room, which they described as "not a common cell."

Cedeño is charged in the shooting death of Altigracia de la Cruz, who died of a head wound in a hotel room Dec. 11. His American wife, Cora, has not been seen since last Thursday, when she went to the court where Cedeño was questioned by Judge Socrates Diaz Curiel, who is in charge of the investigation.

Poor people will note the shortage more than others

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The energy crisis will have an enormous impact on the poor, according to Cabinet Secretary Casper W. Weinberger.

A 10-page report by Weinberger's Health, Education and Welfare Department says the poor will suffer most from the growing shortages resulting from a lack of fuel.

Weinberger, speaking about the report Monday, said the poor more than most will feel the effects of reduced purchasing power brought on by unemployment and inflation and the lack of health services resulting from transportation and budgetary restrictions.

In an interview in his chilly, drafty office which he maintains at 60 degrees, Weinberger said he anticipates increased demands for welfare, higher welfare payments and more social services as unemployment and inflation take hold next year.

He said he will encourage states to watch carefully for a possible need to raise welfare payments to help disadvantaged families cope with such things as rising prices for home heating oil.

Those with respiratory problems may also suffer more if a bill amending the Clean Air Act becomes law. The measure, passed 85 to 0 Monday by the Senate, postpones for one year enforcement of the law requiring a 90 per cent reduction of harmful auto exhaust fumes.

Differences between that bill and a similar House-passed measure must be worked out in conference before postponement of the regulations until 1977 is enacted.

Another conference committee is trying to agree on a stripped down emergency energy bill free of such controversial issues as Vietnam and school busing.

One bonus from the energy crisis, an Associated Press study shows, is fewer traffic fatalities on the nation's highways as a result of lowered speed limits and gasless Sundays.

The survey showed fewer traffic deaths in at least 15 states since President Nixon asked motorists on Nov. 25 to slow down and in the three weeks since stations began closing on Sundays.

The National Safety Council said Monday it has revised its Christmas death toll prediction downward because the fuel shortage has caused a reduction in weekend driving.

In other energy-related developments Monday:

—Allegheny Airlines announced it will lay off 1,288 of its nearly 8,000 employees because of the fuel shortage. Allegheny President Leslie O. Barnes said 36 of the firm's 580 Convair airliners will also be idled.

—The West German government is considering a fuel-saving scheme that would ban Germans from driving three days a month on rotation.

—In Britain, which faces its worst economic crisis since World War II, the government imposed a credit squeeze to discourage buying and cut public spending. Oil, heating fuel and electricity shortages, in addition to price rises and strike threats, have forced the government to put industry on a three-day week at the start of the new year. Shoppers already have begun hoarding, fearing shortages soon of food, cigarettes or liquor.
